Kennedy Says Test Ban Pact Step To Peace

Asks Americans To Join Debate Over A-Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—President John F. Kennedy has urged all Americans to join in a historic debate over the nuclear test ban agreement which he called "an important first step" away from a war that could take more than 300 million lives in an hour.

Kennedy, speaking last night on radio and television to gather support for the treaty, said "it is my hope that all of you will take part" in the debate "for this treaty is for all of us."

CHILDREN

"It is particularly for our children and grandchildren, and they have no lobby here in Washington," said the president.

"This debate will involve military, scientific and political experts, but it must not be left to them alone. The right and the responsibility are yours."

"The historic and constructive debate" for which the president asked will center around the Senate ratifying the agreement by a two-thirds vote.

The president did not picture a bright road ahead. He was cautious and grave.

He cautioned that the American, Soviet and British agreement to ban all nuclear tests except under ground is not millenium. It will not, he said, resolve all conflicts, turn the Communists away from their ambitions or eliminate the dangers of war.

LIGHT

But he called it "a shaft of light" cutting into what had been the darkening prospects of mass destruction on earth—"an important first step — a step toward peace—a step toward reason—a step away from war."

And the president warned that a nuclear war "would not be like any war in history."

"A full-scale nuclear exchange, lasting less than 60 minutes, could wipe out more than 300 million Americans, Europeans and Russians as well as untold numbers elsewhere," said Kennedy. "The survivors, as Khrushchev warned the Communist Chinese, 'would envy the dead.'"

After his speech, the president flew to his summer place at Hyannis Port, Mass., where he will receive a report on the Moscow talks from Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harri-

Marin Transit Proposal Killed By 'Pocket Veto'

Governor Prefers Bay Area District

A proposed Marin County Transit District died last night by "pocket veto" with Gov. Edmund G. Brown refusing to sign the enabling bill by the midnight deadline.

The governor also refused to sign a similar measure for San Mateo County because he prefers a Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

"The San Francisco Bay Area should not attempt to solve its transit problems other than on the basis of the area wide concept . . .," he said.

The bill to create a Marin County Rapid Transit District was written and introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael).

The legislation was requested by the Marin County supervisors who would have been directors of the district.

On introducing the bill Bagley said, "We need some entity in Marin County which can keep constantly abreast of transportation needs."

If the bill had been signed by the governor, it still would have required the approval of the voters to form the district.

Under the proposal, the district would have been authorized to buy out existing transit systems, build a new transit system and subsidize existing private companies.

There could have been a top tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation and a bonding capacity up to 20 per cent of the district valuation.

Among a long list of bills "pocket vetoed" by the governor was a bill by Bagley to increase the number of Superior Courts in Marin County from three to four judges.

Governor Brown said the State Judicial Council had found no need for another superior court judge in Marin County.

Trouble Mounts For Jailed Airman

By PHIL FRADKIN

The troubles of a Hamilton Air Force Base airman, who previously had a clean record, were mounting today as he faced charges in Marin County jail of two armed robberies, kidnapping, car theft and a host of traffic violations.

Paul M. Meredith, 23, was being held in jail on a total of $55,125 bail. He is scheduled to appear in court Monday.

So far Meredith, who was captured at gunpoint yesterday after a downtown San Rafael finance company was robbed of $3,275, has answered investigators' questions with "no comment."

San Rafael police and police in Seaside, Monterey County, were seeking today to determine if Meredith was involved in the stick-up of a Seaside paint and body shopy July 19. The owner of the shop was shot three times, but not seriously wounded.

The robber escaped with no money after the owner, Neil Nelson, grabbed for the gun and the robber panicked.

San Rafael police investigator Richard Camper said Meredith fits the description of the Seaside robber "to a T."

PAUL M. MEREDITH
A clean record

The Seaside robber used a nickle-plated .32 caliber revolver, similar to one used in the kidnapping of a 15-year-old Thursday from a trailer court near Cotati.

Meredith was identified shortly after his arrest in Marin

Union Asks Rail Plan Rejection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Firemen's Union urged rejection today of President John F. Kennedy's proposal for handling the dispute over job-cutting work rules on the railroads.

It recommended instead a resumption of collective bargaining "under congressional direction and observation"—a proposal put forth Friday by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

H. E .Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, told the Senate Commerce Committee that "sufficient progress has been evident" in collective bargaining to warrant continuation of negotiations.

Kennedy, seeking to avert a nationwide rail strike, has proposed that the Interstate Commerce Commission handle the work rules dispute, with power to decide on rules for two years unless the parties agree earlier.

But Gilbert, like representatives of the Engineers' Brotherhood Friday, contended that referring the dispute to the ICC would amount to compulsory arbitration.

Gilbert testified at an unusual Saturday session of the Commerce Committee after Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz held conferences in his office Friday night with both sides of the dispute in another stab at working out an agreement.

Wirtz, on hand to listen to Gilbert's testimony, told a reporter that the negotiating efforts would be resumed after today's committee hearing ends.

But he said last night there is "no basis for thinking at this point that the dispute can be settled outside legislation."

Heats Off --At Least Temporarily

The heat is off — at least temporarily.

After temperatures peaked at 100 degrees in Marin County yesterday, a brief but cool fog early this morning gave promise of a cooler weekend.

Robert Herrick, 20, of 653 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, fell victim to the heat at 4:35 p.m. yesterday. He was treated at Marin General Hospital and sent home.

Despite the forecast for cooler days, the Weather Bureau said fire danger was still high.

The mercury peaked at 100 degrees at San Anselmo and in Santa Venetia, where J. L. Chase of 10 Garden Avenue took his reading at 5 p.m.

It was 98 in San Rafael yesterday. At noon today it was 74, 10 degrees below yesterday's noon reading of 84.

Officials at Samuel P. Taylor State Park reported the largest crowd of campers in four years yesterday.

Other high readings yesterday were Novato, 99; Woodacre, 97; Mill Valley, 94; Fairfax, 92; Belvedere, 88, and Mount Tamalpais, 83.

Rockefeller Fails In Try To Avoid Politics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York hoped to avoid politics and world problems on what he termed a "purely personal" weekend here, but he ran into a herd of inquiring newsmen as soon as he stepped off the plane.

Before the Republican leader could leave the airport yesterday, he was asked about the nuclear test ban, Sen. Barry Goldwater, President John F. Kennedy and several other matters.

The governor said he will make his decision on the test ban after he receives a briefing on the treaty, possibly next week.

The weekend, he said, will be devoted to less weighty matters at the annual Bohemian Club encampment on the Russian River where he will be the guest of James B. Black, chairman of the executive committee of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

At his airport news conference, he did not discuss his own political future, but he said he thought Senator Goldwater was the present Republican "front-runner" for next year's presidential nomination.

He said the Arizona senator probably could fare well against President Kennedy in 1964.

The governor charged that President Kennedy has not tackled the fundamental problems facing the country.

Rockefeller chastised the extreme right wing for its desire to abolish the income tax. "How can they do that and follow the strong anti-Communist line they advocate?" he asked.

Rockefeller and his traveling companion, Republican national committeeman George Hinman of New York, went directly from the airport to the Bohemian Club's annual gathering.

The governor's new bride canceled her plans to accompany her husband.

Brown 'Pocket Vetoes' 145 State Measures

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced his "pocket veto" today of 145 bills, ranging from a tax break for duPont stockholders to an increase in fees adoption agencies may charge parents.

Other rejected measures would have eliminated the requirement that the Supreme Court maintain its headquarters in Sacramento, increased parents' liability for their children's acts and created a State Motor Vehicle Commission.

The deadline for the governor to act upon bills passed by the legislature's 1963 regular session was midnight yesterday, and bills not signed were killed.

A number of the vetoes were of measures which duplicated ones already signed or which had legal or constitutional flaws.

The duPont measure by Assemblyman Gordon Cologne, R-Indio, hotly debated by the legislature, would have declared that General Motors stock distributed to duPont stockholders under a U. S. Supreme Court ruling be taxed by the state as a capital gain instead of income at a considerably lower rate.

Brown said it would cut state revenue by 4.6 million dollars and affected only a small number of people who were not "hardship cases."

The governor, in a 34-page statement on vetoes released by his office, said he rejected a bill to raise from $400 to $500 the fee a county adoption agency may charge because it also would have cut state contributions to the county adoption programs.

He said he agreed with the aim of a bill by Assemblyman John G. Veneman (R-Modesto) to raise from $300 to $1,000 the liability for acts of vandalism by children, but added:

"I cannot consent to the enforcement of such a high maximum where no fault is required to be shown on the part of the parent."

Brown said he vetoed the Supreme Court bill because he hopes. all agencies will eventually maintain their offices in the State Capital. The Supreme Court has its headquarters in San Francisco, despite a law requiring it to be in Sacramento.

The governor said a bill by Assemblyman Tom Carrell (D-San Fernando) to create a Motor Vehicles Commission to license auto dealers and salesmen would duplicate other state work and "allow self-regulation of new and used car dealers."

Governor Brown Lands In Ireland

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California arrived by plane today for a two-day visit.

He also will visit Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Germany, Yugoslavia and Switzerland to determine the effect of the Common Market on California products.

Brown told newsmen he believes the limited nuclear test ban agreement initialed in Moscow is "one of the most important things that has happened since the end of World War II." He said he hopes the U.S. Senate ratifies it.

BOXSCORE ON BILLS PASSED

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Here's the boxscore on bills passed by the 1963 legislature's regular session:

Passed — Senate 924, Assembly 1,417, total 2,341.

Signed by governor—2,170.

Became law without signature—11.

Conservation Corps Bill Is Signed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation creating a California Youth Conservation Corps has been signed into law, Gov. Edmund G. Brown's office announced today.

The bill by Sen. Ronald G. Cameron (D-Auburn) was included in a long list of final actions by the governor on bills passed by the regular session which ended June 21.

Also signed were bills prohibiting closed meetings by 39 state boards and commissions,

New Yugo Tremor

Two Boats Collide Off Stinson Beach

A San Francisco fishing party boat collided with a commercial fishing vessel from Aberdeen, Wash., early today and was beached about halfway down Seadrift at Stinson Beach.

The 39-foot Steelhead from San Francisco flooded with water and headed toward Stinson Beach at 8 a.m., according to the Coast Guard. Eleven persons on board made it safely to shore.

The Steelhead collided with the Kingfisher with the latter apparently not badly damaged. A salvage company was called to float the Steelhead off the beach after an 82-foot Coast Guard boat failed to budge her.

Jacqueline Kennedy Marks 34th Birthday

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — First lady Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy celebrates her 34th birthday tomorrow.

President John F. Kennedy is on hand to join in the quiet festivities for his wife, who is expecting her third child in late August.

Syncom 2 Satellite Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Syncom 2 space communications station, riding high more than 2,000 miles above the earth, drifted slowly today toward its goal as the world's first satellite to operate over one area of the globe.

At its present rate of speed, about 6,800 miles an hour, Syncom 2 will reach a point over the equator above northern Brazil next Saturday. Scientists plan to stop it there by sending radio signals to fire nitrogen jets which will adjust the satellite speed and angle.

If all goes well, the satellite's speed will increase to about 6,880 miles an hour and thus will be synchronous with the speed of the earth rotating below.

Discrimination 'Off Limits'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Military base commanders today were under orders from the Pentagon to protect the civil rights of their men on and off the post even if it means putting a town off limits.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara yesterday authorized in a directive the off limits remedy for communities that practice "relentless" racial discrimination. He told the commanders, however, to get defense department permission before resorting to the restriction.

The order, if put into effect, could have serious repercussions on any number of Southern communities that derive their livelihood from nearby bases.

Negroes, Market Owner Battle

STOCKTON (AP)—Negroes and a market owner stood firm today in the controversy over whether the grocer could afford to hire a Negro.

Negroes say that William D. Farrell, 41, co-owner and manager of the store in south Stockton "has hired every race except Negro."

Al Bonner, 39, president of the Stockton NAACP branch added, "we are merely asking him to hire a Negro and I believe he can do this without firing one of his present employees."

"We already have a full crew of eight clerks," Farrell replied. "I can't hire a colored guy just because he's colored."

Farrell has countered the picketing with newspaper advertising. His latest:

DON'T FORGET FOLKS, SHOP WHERE YOU SEE THE FRIENDLY PICKETS FROM THE NAACP.

Lawrence Confirmed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Board of Education yesterday confirmed the appointment of Paul F. Lawrence of Alameda State College as associate superintendent of public instruction.

Lawrence, 51, has been associate dean of students at the Bay Area college. He replaces Dr. Wallace W. Hall, who resigned to become superintendent of the new West Valley Junior College District in Santa Clara County.

Strikes Outlawed

PARIS (AP) — A government anti-strike bill was voted into law last night after bouncing back and forth between the Senate and National Assembly.

The law, bitterly opposed by France's powerful labor bloc, outlaws surprise strikes in public utilities that frequently plague France. The law requires a five-day notice of a strike.

All Bids Rejected

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Public Works Department has rejected as too high all bids received on construction of a fieldhouse at Sonoma State College near Cotati.

Bufano Wins Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"Torso" and "Bear," standing in front of a library and in a sewage plant, have won $50,000 for sculptor Benny Bufano from the City of San Francisco.

A jury awarded that sum to the usually penniless Bufano yesterday in agreeing to his claim that two statues held by city are his.

The city had contended the statues, made for the Works Projects Administration in the 1930s, were given to the city by the federal government. City officials valued the statues at $7,500. Bufano had asked for $65,000.

The city said it would appeal.

Singer Divorces

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Marilyn King, 31, of the King Sisters singing team, won a divorce yesterday from Howard M. Lloyd, 43, after testifying he "gave her a terrible time" about her career.

She said that Lloyd, a television film salesman, "wanted to know where I was every minute."

Miss King was given title to a home in Sherman Oaks, plus $150 a month alimony for 15 years. She will also receive $200 monthly child support for their two children, ages 5 and 3.

They were married in 1954.

KTVU-TV Is Sold

OAKLAND (AP)—KTVU, Oakland's independent Channel 2 television station, has been sold for approximately 12 million dollars to the Miami Valley Broadcasting Co., owned by the Cox interests.

The sale, subject to Federal Communications Commission approval, was confirmed last night by William B. Pabst and Ward D. Ingrim, major stockholders in San Francisco-Oakland Television Inc., corporate owner of KTVU.

Lawmakers In Huddle On Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) Three senators and three assemblymen huddled until late last night, looking for a budget compromise they hope will end the legislature's special session next week.

The two-house conferees, meeting secret, planned a final session Monday morning.

Spokesmen were optimistic that they would come up with a spending program both houses can agree to.

$85 MILLION

Sen. Stephen P. Teale (D-Calaveras), head of the senate negotiators, had said he would not go over 85 million dollars for the supplemental budget asked by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles) had said he wouldn't go under 95 million dollars. Governor Brown had asked 114 million dollars.

The dispute nearly brought the special session to an abrupt end Thursday, as tempers flared and Unruh threatened to adjourn his house and go home.

PEACE TALKS

Things were calmer yesterday. Unruh and Senate President pro tem Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno) held a peace meeting and said they were friends again.

Burns said Senator Teale has an idea for a compromise.

"I told him not to let me know what it is," Burns said.

The main bone of contention is whether to grant 5 per cent pay boosts to university and state college faculties. Unruh insists on it. Teale has refused.

BROWN AWAY

Brown took a plane from New York for a six-week European tour with his family, saying the legislature had approved his 149-million-dollar revenue program and "it's up to the legislature to determine how the money should be spent."

The governor said he had been assured that some spending program and school finance bill will be passed.

The budget conferees said a similar committee trying to resolve Senate-Assembly differences over the school money bill won't start meeting until a budget agreement is worked out.

There is no disagreement over the amount of increased state aid — 40 million dollars this year and another 20 million dollars next year. The Assembly wants to set a minimum school property tax, but the Senate is against it.

Without the minimum property tax, Unruh says the bill should be limited to one year's funds.

Senior Citizen Wins

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—At the age of 80, Anna M. Priestly is enjoying a weekend in San Francisco—top prize in the first annual Statewide Senior Citizens' Poetry Contest.

A patriotic poem of three verses titled, "On Guard," won her the award, one of some 60 she has received since penning her first couplets at the age of 22.

A poet who composes both at night as well as during the day, Miss Priestly says she's written some 3,000 poems, about 300 of which have been published in magazines and newspapers.

She worked for 29 years as a secretary for the U. S. Agriculture Department in Washington, D. C. She retired in 1942 and moved to San Diego 17 years ago.

ALL LOST BUT LIFE—An elderly woman sits on a bench in front of her home, one of thousands destroyed by the earthquake which struck Skopje, Yugoslavia at dawn yesterday. Officials fear the death toll might go as high as 6,000. (AP Wirephoto)

Earthquake In Yugoslavia 'Worst Natural Disaster'

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Debris of this quake-ruined city slowly yielded the dead today from the worst natural disaster in Yugoslavia's history.

The government announced 600 bodies had been recovered. Red Cross authorities estimated the toll may reach 2,000. One city official expressed fear 6,000 were dead.

More than 2,000 injured were treated at field hospitals in and around the ruins of Skopje, which was a Macedonian metropolis of 270,000 people and a tourist center when the killer quake struck before dawn yesterday.

Four Americans who were in Skopje emerged unharmed. They were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nocella of Willow Grove, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. John Bobinec of Warren, Mich. All made their way safely to Belgrade.

U.S. diplomatic authorities were checking on reports that four persons from Boston, Mass., had been in the area, but a spokesman said "we have not had direct word about them."

Mr. and Mrs. Nocella, a photographer-writer team, had paused in Skopje on their way to Greece. The Hotel Macedonia was booked fully when they arrived Thursday night and its night clerk directed them to a nearby hotel, the Jadran. Mrs. Nocella said this saved their lives, for the quake collapsed the Macedonia and entombed its guests.

President Tito flew in for a personal assessment of the destruction wrought by the quake in this glittering, bustling showplace of his kind of communism. He had proclaimed a weekend of mourning.

His face set and grim, Tito joined thousands of rescue workers in sifting rubble for victims, some killed outright by falling masonry and others buried alive.

Yugoslav army bulldozers and other earth-moving equipment were used in the quest for victims.

The city's two biggest hotels, the Macedonia and the Skopje, were destroyed. Officials said 260 tourists died in the hotel Macedonia alone.

Brigitte Joufret, a 23-year-old student from Marseilles, was found alive in the wreckage of the Hotel Macedonia today. She survived by sandwiching herself between two mattresses.

This is the height of the tourist season in Eastern Europe and many foreigners were in Skopje.

The quake—the worst natural disaster in modern Yugoslav history—destroyed about 85 per cent of the buildings in Skopje, Northern Macedonian capital, and left at least half of the population of 270,000 homeless.

It was hard to estimate the total number of injured. Officials said more than 2,000 persons were treated at emergency stations.

Authorities rushed in an emergency force of 10,000, mostly soldiers, fearing an outbreak of fires from broken gas mains.

Residents were warned against drinking water that may have been polluted. In one section, residents mobbed an army truck bringing in water.

Castro Charges U.S. 'Swindled' Cuba Out Of $10 Million Ransom

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro, in a frenzied three-hour speech last night, charged the United States cheated him out of 10 million dollars in promised ransom goods and said he is not going to revoke his "confiscation" of the American Embassy here.

The Cuban leader insulted President John F. Kennedy and said he was pursuing "a stupid policy toward Cuba."

The bearded Communist leader also called on his followers in Latin America to revolt against their governments and unveiled a Cuban-written song, "The March of Latin America," to inspire them. He pledged the support of the Soviet Union and the entire Communist bloc.

In his address in the Plaza of the Revolution here, Castro marked the 10th anniversary of his unsuccessful attack on the Moncada army barracks in Santiago, Cuba, with one of the most violent attacks on the U.S. since he came into power in 1959.

But his charge that Washington had "swindled" him out of 10 million dollars worth of ransom goods pledged for the release of the 1,113 Cuban Bay of Pigs prisoners came as a surprise.

"The United States was obliged to pay 53 million dollars but they paid only 43 million dollars and they are absolute swindlers," he told a roaring crowd estimated at several hundred thousand.

New York attorney James B. Donovan, who handled the negotiations for the prisoners' release, "was prevented from fulfilling the agreements with us 100 per cent," Castro said.

"The American Red Cross owes us 10 million and the U.S. government is trying to swindle the Cuban people in a shameful way," he charged.

(In Washington, a Red Cross spokesman said "as far as we know, everything was delivered." The last of nine shiploads of ransom goods arrived in Havana earlier this month, he said.)

OH BOY!

Jeffrey Golfien, 4, of 377 Vista Linda, Mill Valley, finds good eating at a watermelon feast held by Mill Valley's Park School to celebrate the end of summer session classes. Jeff actually didn't got to any of the city's summer session's but he knows good watermelon when he sees it.

Eviction Of Tree Expert To Be 'Fought All Way'

Eviction of W. Warren Anderson from his rare plant nursery near Muir Woods will be "fought all the way," Anderson's attorney, Albert Bianchi, said today.

He said Anderson has instructed him to resist the attempted eviction unless some arrangements can be entered into which would allow the plant man additional time to move.

The 68-year-old botanist received notice Tuesday that he must move by midnight last night since his seven acres has been purchased by the State Division of Beaches and Parks to become a part of Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Anderson knows he must move but has had no success in finding another location. He claims he needs four to six weeks to transport his 3,500 potted plants and trees and other equipment.

Bianchi said he has written to the state attorney general's office, explaining the need for additional time. The state may choose to file a complaint in Marin County Superior Court, Bianchi commented, and if it does, "We will answer it and deny the validity of their notice," Bianchi said.

man, the chief U. S. representative at the negotiations.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, scheduled to fly to the Soviet Union next week to sign the treaty, will be on hand.

Kennedy and Rusk are likely to hear from Harriman a new assessment of Khrushchev and his difficulties in trying to maintain the unity of the Communist bloc and especially about the growing Sino-Soviet struggle for leadership.

While Kennedy went on the air to tell Americans how he feels about the treaty and future agreements which may follow, Khrushchev did essentially the same in an interview with the newspapers Pravda and Izvestia.

The leaders were in agreement on three issues. Both hailed the pact's international significance; both hinted that it may open the door to other agreements, and both cautioned that no one should expect miracles.

Paintings Exhibited At Sausalito Fair

A collection of 30 oil paintings on black velvet painted by artists of Honolulu, Okinawa, the Philippines and Canada is being shown through Aug. 2 at Brotman's in the Village Fair, Sausalito.

The shop, according to Havey Brotman, president, is open daily through Sunday and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each day during the show.

banning liens against welfare recipients for hospital care and authorizing local governments to levy a hotel room tax.

The conservation measure, effective for a two-year trial period, provides for a pilot program to put youngsters to work in the woods on conservation programs and thus curb high school "drop outs." Estimated cost is $300,000.

A bill by Assemblyman Milton Marks (R-San Francisco) adds the new boards and commissions to those already covered by the Brown Act prohibiting secret meetings.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael) sponsored the measure prohibiting liens against welfare recipients, or their dependent children, during the recipient's lifetime for care in the county hospital.

All counties and general law cities are specifically authorized to impose a room tax on transients under a new law by Assemblyman John P .Quimby (D-San Bernardino).

California's small craft harbor program got a major boost from a bill by Assemblyman John C. Williamson (D-Bakersfield) increasing from $750,000 to $2 million a year the amount of gasoline tax funds allocated for boating activities.

Two Drivers Hurt In Auto Collision

Two drivers suffered minor injuries when their cars collided on Highway 101 overpass in San Rafael at 4:35 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Helen Louise Zinn, 25, of 1539 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, suffered bruises and scrapes, and Lawrence John Walters, 35, of San Francisco suffered chest bruises. They were treated at Marin General Hospital and released.

6-Year-Old Trapped In Trunk

An old steamer trunk, half full of clothes and curtains, seemed a good hiding place to six-year-old Jeffrey Connors of 498 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood, for Hide and Seek yesterday, but it nearly turned into a death trap.

The ancient trunk was in a garage at 310 Pinewood Street where Stephen and Mark Farrish, ages 9 and 8, were playing hide and seek with Jeff and his brother Ricky.

Finding the trunk, Jeff climbed in and Ricky closed the lid. It locked. Ricky's cries for help attracted Stephen Farrish who called his 15 year old sister, Judy, but she was unable to open the trunk.

She then called Marinwood Fire Department. Firemen forced the lock open to find an "alive but scared to death" hide-and-go-seeker. He was in the air tight trunk for about five minutes.

"He was also a little angry," said his mother, Mrs. A. W. Connors, who learned of the incident only when the boy was accompanied home by Marinwood Asst. Fire Chief Joseph Medley.

She noted that he isn't as fond of hide-and-go-seek as he used to be.

I-J Carrier Gets Award

Richard Cordone, a 14-year-old Independent-Journal carrier, has received an Award of Merit from Mount Tamalpais Branch 254 of the Fleet Reserve Assn. for securing a new U.S. flag for the Navy recruiting office in San Rafael.

Richard presented the flag to the Navy early this month after he noticed that the flag at the office was worn.

The award reads "In recognition of his outstanding display of Americanism and patriotism, in securing a new American flag to replace one greatly worn at the Navy Recruiting Office in San Rafael."

Richard, who lives at 918 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, received a framed certificate of award and a collection of "Documents of Freedom" including the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Mountain Lion Bounty Suspended

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's bounty on mountain lions has been suspended for four years.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown's office announced today the signing of a bill by Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) providing the four-year moratorium.

The last bounty on big game animals in California, it had authorized payments of $50 for males and $60 for females.

Conservationists had urged abolition of the bounty as wasteful and a threat to the estimated 600 lions in the state.

Arraigned On Theft Charge

Edward John Meyers, 49, of Jessup Street, San Rafael, arrested Thursday and charged with petty theft with a prior conviction, the same charge he had been acquitted on the day before, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Harold J. Haley set Thursday as the time for a plea on the new charge.

Meyers was arrested in the early morning as a drunk, and when told to empty his pockets, was found to have items which had been taken from the car of Paul Devaux, 590 Whitewood Drive, Marinwood, police said.

Unemployed Hub Roofer Is Shot After Argument

A two-day running argument was climaxed last night by the shooting of a 47-year-old unemployed San Anselmo roofer, San Anselmo police reported today.

Leslie Hamilton Stocker of 412 Redhill Avenue was in "fair" condition today at Marin General Hospital. Stocker's spleen was removed last night in surgery at the hospital.

The argument between Stocker and Mrs. Edna Marie Ellis, 48, of the same address started Thursday night when Stocker reportedly beat Mrs. Ellis. She drove to San Francisco, learned of the death of a brother-in-law and returned home last night to prepare to go to the funeral in Turlock, Stanislaus County.

Stocker, according to Asst. Chief Sam Serio of the San Anselmo police, said he did not want Mrs. Ellis, an unemployed grocery clerk, to go to the funeral.

She told police that he knocked her to the floor where she pretended to be unconscious. Stocker then dumped a pitcher of water on Mrs. Ellis.

She got up, went to a dresser drawer in the bedroom and inserted four cartridges in a .38 caliber revolver which holds five shells. Stocker laughed, she said, when she threatened to shoot him.

Mrs. Ellis pulled the trigger three times. The fourth time the gun went off, hitting Stocker in the side. She was standing about seven feet from Stocker, Serio said. Time of the shooting was 9 p.m.

Serio said Mrs. Ellis "didn't show any remorse about shooting Stocker."

She was being held in county jail today in lieu of $3,500 bail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Cuba Visitor To Lose Her Passport

Carol B. Esteves, 20, of 15 Lincoln Avenue, San Anselmo, one of 20 Bay Area students who violated the State Department's ban on Cuban travel, is expected home about the middlie of next month, her father, Roger Esteves, said today.

Meanwhile, state department officials said that the only punitive action contemplated against the students is revocation of their passports which will make it illegal for them to leave the country again.

The group went to Cuba late last month, going by way of Prague, Czechoslovakia. Costs were paid by the Cuban Student Federation.

Esteves said his daughter called home from Havana two weeks ago. "She is having a ball," he said.

A Freedom of Travel Committee, formed Thursday in Berkeley, is preparing a welcoming parade for the students possibly down San Francisco's Market Street.

Discount Store Gets Approval From Planners

The San Rafael Planning Commission yesterday granted architectural approval for use of a vacant building at 607 Irwin Street as a discount department store.

The store, to be known as Marinda, will have a 50 foot lighted sign to advertise its location. Planners, in granting approval to remodel the building, noted that there would probably be insufficient parking.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

1. Granted a variance permit to Earl Ward Jr. of 5 Bayview Street, for a garage.
2. Granted a variance permit to Rolfe Croker of 62 Junipero Serra for a swimming pool.
3. Approved the final map for San Rafael Cayes Unit One.
4. Granted a 60-day extension to Latipac Inc. for completion of a survey map for 2 lots on Biscayne Drive.

Two Are Hurt In Marin Crash

Two persons were injured when their car swerved off the Bridgeway-Marin City underpass at 12:10 a.m. today and stopped hard against a bridge pillar.

Beverly Gail Hesse, 24, of San Francisco, the driver, suffered a broken cheek bone and facial cut. She was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Peter Randolph Black, 37, of 215 Van Winkle Drive, San Anselmo, a passenger, suffered a cut scalp and cut lip. He was treated at Marin General Hospital and released.

The California Highway Patrol reported the car jumped the curb. Investigation continued today.

Rocks Thrown At Arrest In Marin City

Two Marin County sheriff's deputies and four Sausalito policemen were pelted by rocks last night and a woman bystander slightly injured during a near-riot about midnight involving an estimated 70 Negroes in Marin City.

Deputies John Lunt and M. Conlin had to call for help from Sausalito police to arrest Ephorn Freeman, 18, of 217 Building C-28, Marin City.

The arrest, at the corner of Cole and Drake avenues, was made in the midst of a shouting crowd, some of whom threw rocks and other missiles.

Conlin was hit by a gasoline can. A Sausalito police car received a minor dent.

Tealie Elder, 66, of 25 Cole Drive, Marin City, a bystander, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a facial cut.

Freeman, booked at Marin County Jail for allegedly parking on the wrong side of the road, failing to stop at a crosswalk and stop sign, failing to stop for a police car's red light and driving on the wrong side of the road, was freed on $149 bail.

County yesterday as the man who kidnapped Aleta Tufts. Garth and Gary Tufts, Aleta's father and brother, made the identification in the county jail.

Aleta was driven around on back-country roads. At one point, she said, the young man tried to molest her. She was finally let out of the car near Middle Fork in Sonoma County.

The young girl told authorities that her abductor carried a nickle-plated revolver in a shoulder holster.

Meredith was also identified by bartender Melvin Cleveland of Santa Rosa as the man who tried to hold up his bar a short time before the Tufts girl was kidnapped.

A hold has been placed on Meredith on charges of kidnapping and attempted robbery by Sonoma County authorities. Bail on these charges was set at $52,500.

Meredith was captured yesterday shortly after 11 a.m. by California Highway Patrolman Frank Hulley at the Spencer Avenue turnoff from Highway 101.

After the hold-up of the Household Finance Corporation office at 887 Fourth Street, Meredith led officers on a wild 100-mile-per-hour chase north to Marinwood and then south to the Waldo grade. A loaded Luger was found on the seat of the car.

The highway patrol issued citations to Meredith for reckless driving, unsafe lane changes and exceeding the maximum speed limit. Hulley noted that Meredith swerved off Highway 101 at Spencer Avenue at 80 miles per hour.

The only motive for the crime spree which police have uncovered so far is "a sudden need for money," according to inspector Camper.

Hamilton Air Force Base officials said Meredith, who enlisted in the Air Force in January, "has no prior record of any type that we know of."

Since coming to Hamilton in May from aircraft jet mechanic school in Amarillo, Tex., the officials said, "He has been in no trouble at the base."

Meredith, who was born in Warren, Ohio, has a brother living in Garden Grove, Los Angeles County. He enlisted in the Air Force in Los Angeles.

A Hamilton public information officer, checking on Meredith's record in response to a reporter's question yesterday after he had just been captured, received the reply from his squadron that, "We thought he was on duty."

DAIRY FARMERS WOULD LIKE TO SET THE RECORD STRAIGHT

We feel that the recent announcement from the Bureau of Milk Stabilization calling for hearings to consider reducing prices paid to producers for fluid milk has aroused all dairymen.

HERE ARE THE FACTS!

- There is no actual surplus of milk in California, WE STILL IMPORT MANY DAIRY PRODUCTS.
- Grade A bottle milk produced in California is the Highest Quality available in the nation—yet CONSUMER COST IS BELOW THE NATIONAL AVERAGE.
- California dairymen produce MORE MILK PER COW with the HIGHEST OVERALL EFFICIENCY of any dairymen in any of the other states.
- Retail prices of milk to the consumer have increased 3½ cents per quart in the past 10 years while the price per quart received by California dairyman increased only ¾ cents in the same period.

CALIFORNIA DAIRYMEN ARE NOT ASKING FOR A RAISE IN PRICE . . . BUT WE CANNOT AFFORD A CUT!!

Your Association will represent you at the Bureau of Milk Stabilization hearing in your area. However we are only as strong as THE SUPPORT YOU GIVE US!!

YOUR INCOME IS THREATENED

HELP US TO HELP YOU BY ATTENDING THE HEARINGS

THE HEARING FOR YOUR AREA IS SCHEDULED FOR: JULY 29, 1963 at County Administration Building, Room 122, 2555 Mendocino, Santa Rosa, California.

Educator Classifies College Set

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—A man who served for 23 years as president of the University of Michigan says students usually can be classified into three types.

They are the noisy ones, the playboys (and girls), and the dedicated ones, says Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president emeritus, who was in office 1929-51. He describes them in his autobiographical "Naturalist in Two Worlds" (University of Michigan Press).

THE NOISY ones, said Doctor Ruthven, "are determined to be heard from the time they enter college. Posing as authorities on almost everything at home and abroad, they insist they should run the university . . . They usually claim to be liberals and boast of disrespect for authority. Common status symbols are . . . soiled shoes, jeans, shorts, untidy hair, and occasionally mangy beards. These students should disturb no one. One can usually assume that their activities represent growing pains. My disappointment with them as I have seen them later as alumni is that very few become liberal leaders and many become distressingly ultraconservative."

THE EDUCATOR said the "playboys (and girls)" had "in my experience" been a small group. He said that "complaints are often heard about the waste of money and time of instruction in trying to educate those whose ambition is to get nothing more than a 'gentleman's grade' or to get married."

"The critics fail to take into consideration the number of these students who find themselves after they have entered college and go on to success as alumni and citizens," Doctor Ruthven wrote.

"THE DEDICATED ONES," he continued, "more than any others make life worth living for their teachers" because they come to college "with their eyes firmly fixed on at least a general goal.

"... Once called "grinds" by the playboys and considered poor college citizens by the noisy ones, these men and women have in later years gained the more respectable title of 'egg heads.' Neither of these terms is appropriate."

House Shopping? Take Yardstick

NEW YORK (UPI)—Take along a yardstick or folding rule when you get house shopping. You will need it to check some vital statistics which make the difference between convenient and inconvenient living, advises William J. Levitt, president of the Levitt and Sons firm which claims to be the world's largest builder of single-family homes. Use the measuring rod on closets—they should be 24 inches deep, Levitt said.

Francis Healy Will Claim Bride, Nov. 30

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Loretta Irene Del Missier of Seattle and Francis John Healy of San Rafael.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of Mrs. Peter F. Del Missier of Seattle and the late Mr. Del Missier, was graduated from Holy Names Academy in Seattle and Dominican College in San Rafael.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Healy of San Rafael, was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and St. Mary's College in Moraga. He is a teacher at Notre Dame High School in Sherman Oaks. Madelon and Melanie Healy of San Rafael are his sisters and he is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clavere and the late Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Healy.

The wedding will be an event of Nov. 30 in Seattle.

P-TA Council Presents Book

The Mill Valley P-TA Council has presented a book to the Mill Valley School District instructional center in the name of Mrs. Robert F. Murphy. The book is "100,000 Years of Daily Life of Visual History" by Jacques Brosse.

Mrs. Murphy, a former history teacher, was 1962-63 president of the Council. She and her family will have the book for the summer before it is turned over to the instructional center located in the basement of Park School.

The librarian, Miss Laurel Robinson, procures the books for kindergarten through eighth grade level, ranging in subject matter from history and astronomy to geography. Teachers check out the books for two-week periods, and children may browse through them at the center.

Editor Invents Recipe Juggler

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Houston newsman with a head for kitchen arithmetic has devised a mathematics wheel that takes the guesswork out of a housewife's recipe juggling.

His "Dial a Dish" converts recipes specifying a certain number of servings into any number of servings.

Luther Rowsey, assistant city editor of the Houston Press, got a copyright on his recipe meter and hopes to mass-produce it so homemakers can make their kitchen computations without pad and pencil.

The recipe meter is a circular disc with a small disc attached. The outer scale has settings for servings desired. The inner scale settings are for the servings listed on the recipe.

Marilyn Ullom Will Marry In Santa Barbara, Aug. 31

The engagement and approaching marriage of Marilyn Jane Ullom of San Anselmo and Gerald Roy Scammon of Fullerton has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Charles Ullom of San Anselmo.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of the late Charles Ullom, was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin. She is employed at Hughes Aircraft Co. in Fullerton. Mrs. Roger Boe of San Rafael is her sister and she is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ullom of Santa Maria and the late Charles Baldwin of Napa.

The future bridegroom, son of Mrs. Lee Scammon of Spokane, Wash., and the late Mr. Scammon, was graduated from Almira High School and is attending Fullerton Junior College. He is employed as an electronics technician at Hughes Aircraft.

The wedding will be an event of Aug. 31 in the Santa Barbara Unitarian Church.

Tips Will Beat Snooze-Time Heat

CHICAGO (UPI) — Summer time and the sleepin' is easy—if you follow these tips on beating the heat.

A firm which manufactures bedding suggested the bedroom can be kept cooler by closing the windows and drawing the shades or blinds just before noon. This helps keep outside heat from entering.

Take a lukewarm bath or shower, never a cold one, to relax you before retiring.

Use cotton sheets instead of nylon. Sleeping under a sheet is a good idea, since it will protect you from any temperature drops or drafts that might occur during the night.

Edsberg-McCollom Rite In Sacramento

In a recent double ring ceremony at the Church of Christ in Sacramento Kenneth Edward Edsberg claimed Noletta May McCollum as his bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Essig and Ray L. McCollum of Stockton. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Ramona Edsberg of Sacramento and Edward Edsberg of Fairfax.

Joyce Lyons was maid of honor and April Edsberg, the bridegroom's sister, bridesmaid. Charles Michael was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the church.

The bride was graduated from Manteca Union High School and Stockton College.

The bridegroom was graduated from El Camino High School in Sacramento and is attending Sacramento State College. Recently, he gained fame by hitchhiking 9,000 miles during a six-month period through Mexico and Central America to Colombia and Ecuador.

In Fitting Pair Of Shorts, Try Cutting The Seam Deeper

By EUNICE FARMER

"My shorts seem to fit me when I am standing up, but whenever I am sitting down, they seem to pull down from the waistband at the center back. Is there any correction for this?"—Mrs. A.C.C.

Dear Mrs. A.C.C.:

This question has been asked me many, many, times and I think I can help you solve this problem rather easily. The seam at the center back of the shorts is too slanted, rather than having a deep curve which is needed to fit you. On your next pair, try cutting the back seam as illustrated (don't forget to add extra at the side seams when making this adjustment).

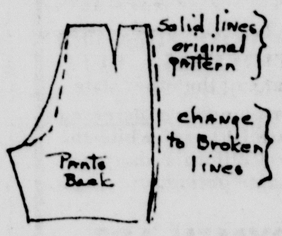
"When cutting slacks, shorts, or skirts, I extend the left front seam allowance one inch. By doing this, it is not necessary to add binding to the seam in order to have enough room for a nice lapped slide fastener."

Liz Walker, Orlando, Fla., is this week's winner of a tailor trix pressing board for this suggestion.

"How do you fringe the ends of a tie scarf that has been cut on the bias?"—Mrs. F.G.

Dear Mrs. F.G.:

Sorry, this can't be done. In order to fringe anything, it must be cut on the true cross-grain or lengthwise grain at the ends. This would also apply to a scarf that is cut straight, but has an angle at the ends.



You will have to fringe a straight piece of fabric and insert it in a seam at the lower ends of a tie, just the way you would insert lace.

"The fitter at the store discouraged me from having my Italian knit dress refitted at the shoulder and underarm seams because the fabric would ravel or lose shape if cut. Can this be true?"—Mrs. E.H.D.

Dear Mrs. E.H.D.:

I think perhaps she is referring to a hand knit, rather than a machine knit. These alterations do take a bit more skill to do, but can be done very successfully. It would be a good idea to place tape under any seam that might stretch. Use a slightly longer machine stitch than you usually use, and pull the garment slightly as you stitch to prevent seams being too taut which would cause your stitches to break.

Usually the cut seams are finished with an overcasting stitch which can be done by hand if you don't have this attachement on your machine.

"If the shoulder line is not too wide, but my garment is too big at the underarm seam, how can I change this and also change the armhole so it will fit the sleeve?"—Mrs. G.M.

Dear Mrs. G.M.:

I am inclined to think the easiest adjustment for you would be to buy a pattern one size smaller and add your additional width to the shoulders, both front and back.

However, it is possible to take in the side seams at the underarm. The sleeves would be taken in the same amount at the underarm seam and they would then fit your armhole perfectly.

Mrs. Richard Miller says: "When tiny tots outgrow those little straight hanging dresses, remove the sleeves (if too small) and shorten slightly and you will have some darling little 'smock tops' to slip over shorts or slacks."

Your sewing glossary: Hand picking: This differs from saddle stitching because it is made with a very tiny stitch and each stitch is a back stitch. It can also be decorative however, it is usually used for slide fasteners, outer edges of collars and fronts of coats and suits.

Buffet Supper Will Honor Young Couple

Alexandra Allen and Daniel Feckles will be honored at a kitchen shower and buffet supper to be hosted tomorrow by the John A. Thomsons at their home in Mill Valley.

The 7 p.m. supper will precede the opening of gifts by the bride-elect who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Allen of Mill Valley. She and Daniel, who is the son of Elliott Feckles of Hong Kong, will be married on Aug. 10 at the Mill Valley Community Church.

Invited to the party are family friends of the Allens and their children.

Present will be the Allens and their other two daughters, Susan and Frances, and the Thomsons' sons, Jim, Frank and Lewis.

Others will be Dr. and Mrs. Peter Forsham and daughters, Betsy and Anne; Messrs. and Mesdames Thomas G. Cheetham, Jay I. Blayney, Bert A. Stocking and their children, Dale and Glen and Mrs. J. G. Hamel—all of Mill Valley; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Jensen of Modesto and their sons, Bruce and Brian.

Senior Scouts Plan For Camp Trip In Sierras

Doreen Phelps of San Rafael, Judith Stewart and Lee Ann Zepp of Novato will depart from Berkeley Aug. 5, for a 12-day camping trip in the Sierra. They will be members of a group of 44 Senior Girl Scouts from the Bay Area who will tour the Mother Lode region in a chartered bus, camping a few days in each of three camps operated by the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council.

During their stay at Camp Sonora the Scouts will visit nearby Columbia Historic State Park and Moaning Cave. Angel's Camp, Frog Town and Jamestown are also on their itinerary as they go to Camp Sugar Pine in Calaveras County. The last five days of the adventure will center at Camp Timberloft near Yosemite Valley and will include a two-day backpack trip.

AFTERNOON FOR A LUAU

All dressed in Hawaiian costumes for this afternoon's luau at the Albert Evers home in Ross are members of the Marin Young Republicans, from left, Robert Milmoe, William Moor and William Keeler. Entertainment for the afternoon will feature a clown diving exhibition, guitar playing and a magic show. Mr. and Mrs. Keeler are general chairmen.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Two Brides-Elect To Be Honored At Luncheon Monday

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Two brides-elect, Carla Rosenbaum and Jill Clumeck, will be honored at a mothers and daughters luncheon to be given by Carla's mother, Mrs. Charles Rosenbaum, at El Prado in San Francisco Monday. Carla's betrothal to Michael Geister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Geister of San Rafael was announced last week. They are making plans for a wedding early in February.

Jill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clumeck of Ross, will be married at a garden ceremony at the home of her parents Sept. 1. She will become the bride of John Freidenrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Freidenrich of Palo Alto. Both are Stanford University graduates. Jill attended a term on the Stanford campus in Florence, Italy. John is a graduate of Stanford School of Law. He will open a law office in Los Angeles after he and Jill return from their honeymoon.

Many bridal parties have been given for Jill. Another will be a dinner and shower given Thursday by Susan Smith and Joan Shattuck at the home of Sue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith of Ross.

Kathy Anixter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Anixter of Kent Woodlands, is giving a luncheon at her home Aug. 10 honoring Jill.

JIM PRESSLEY of Ross has been batching it while his family has vacationed at Tahoe.

ART AND LOIS KAUFMAN and children are at the Brockway Hotel and Lois' aunt is staying at their Kent Woodlands home. This weekend they are being joined by the S. K. Herzogs of San Rafael.

MRS. BARI FROHLICH of Fairhills, San Rafael is flying to Miami Beach, Fla. to attend the Dance Masters of America convention at the Hotel Fontainebleau. She hopes to learn some exciting new dances to teach her Junior Cotillion pupils next season, which starts in mid-September.

After nine days of convention work in Miami, Mrs. Frohlich will go to Nassau for further work pertaining to the formal Cotillion groups.

WHILE ADMIRAL George van Deur and his wife are traveling in Europe, their Belvedere home is occupied by two New Yorkers, Mrs. Harold McChesney, well known potter and her sister, Llewelyn Miller, an author.

THE DAN ALLENS of Larkspur with their daughter, Coralie, 17, leave Tuesday on a three months holiday. They will go first to Washington, D. C. to attend the wedding of the Allens' son, Craig Winthrop Allen, and Diane Eunice Manchester Aug. 3. Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Manchester of Rockfell, Conn. Diane, a Phi Beta Kappa, was graduated cum laude from Smith College. Craig, a graduate of Stanford University, has a master's degree from University of Michigan. He is with the U. S. Department of Labor in Washington.

Coralie will be one of the bride's attendants. The Allens and their daughter will go to New York and sail from there on the Bergensfjord to Kristiansand, Norway. They'll tour Norway, Sweden and Denmark then get a car to drive through Holland, Luxemburg and along the Rhine to Switzerland. There Coralie will leave her parents to study for a year at Montesano in Gstadt. The Allens will go on to see the southern part of Europe. While they are away Mrs. Allen's sister, Mrs. John Keller, will stay at their home.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL STILLSON of San Rafael and their family, who have been vacationing in Hawaii, are sailing on the Matsonia from Honolulu to San Francisco.

DR. AND MRS. FRANK REUHLING, who have two daughters, Virginia and Mely, have leased a house in Hawthorne Terrace. The Reuhlings moved here from Iowa where he attended medical school. He is interning at San Francisco General Hospital.

THE PAUL PENNOYERS of New York will be in their Rubicon Beach home at Lake Tahoe in August. He is now at the Bohemian Grove. The Pennoyers will be visited in Tahoe by their daughters, Mrs. Norman B. Livermore Jr. of San Rafael and Mrs. August Schilling of Woodside and their families.

ANNOUNCEMENT has just been made of the marriage of Robert C. Foster, member of an old San Rafael family, and Alice Bischke. He is the son of the Benjamin Foster, who now live in Palm Desert. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bischke of Banning, Calif. The newlyweds are living on the bridegroom's ranch in Indio.

HEIDI HICKINGBOTHAM, who is spending most of the summer at the Lake Tahoe home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hickingbotham of San Rafael, entertained there at a luncheon, swim and water ski party.

Marin Commuters Shouldn't Be Caught In The Middle

Just why should Marin County commuters pay the price of a hassle between the State Highway Commission and the San Francisco supervisors?

Golden Gate Bridge Director Dan London of San Francisco put his finger squarely on the issue in Sacramento when he told the commission it should face up to paying state money for overdue widening of San Francisco approaches to the bridge.

London said he recognized that no Federal Interstate Highway Funds would be made available for the approach unless the city and county of San Francisco agreed to a freeway connection with the Bay Bridge.

"But since that money is not readily available," the San Franciscan went on, "we submit again that it is a legal and moral obligation of the state to provide state highway funds for the widening."

A spokesman for Marin couldn't have done a better job of pinning responsibility where it belongs, squarely on Sacramento.

That is as it should be, and on no low-priority basis. The idea that federal money must be put in, or else, is merely dodging a clear responsibility.

Of course it would be dandy if the federal funds were available, but under existing circumstances they aren't. San Francisco supervisors have blocked more freeways, this removes the bridge from the interstate highway system because it can't be linked with the Embarcadero Freeway, and there we are caught in a dilemma not of our making.

The case is clear. Three out of four elements — the Marin highways, the bridge as now modified for four lanes in one direction at peak hours, and the San Francisco streets—all can handle more traffic than can move through bottleneck of the San Francisco bridge approaches.

We strongly suggest that this state of affairs be considered for early outlay by the state as a main big-top attraction, while the San Francisco freeway ruckus is relegated to the dime show tent.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BRICKBAT to the person who has the northbound Greyhound bus stop to let him off along Highway 101 just opposite Las Gallinas Avenue, then crossing four lines of high-speed traffic where a former pedestrian lane has long since been closed—though he has to climb over the center barrier in the process. And another BRICKBAT for the driver who lets him thus debark with jeopardy to his life and also many others who might figure in a rush hour chain pile-up.

A BRICKBAT to three undereducated college youths who tried the childish stunt of climbing the north tower of the Golden Gate Bridge, an act which caused injury of a motorist during ensuing traffic congestion below.

A BOUQUET to Novato for starting a fire alarm system covering the downtown area, schools and hospitals.

A BOUQUET to a specialist in 'em, posy fancier Victor Bello of Novato who was sole Marin winner at the Sonoma County Fair flower show with five firsts.

A BRICKBAT to the state for its three-day evacuation notice to a seven-acre nursery owner near Muir Woods—expected to move 3,500 potted plants in no time flat to give (ironically) more room for Mount Tamalpais State Park!

JAMES MARLOW'S COLUMN

Railroads' Change To Diesels Is A Vital Point In Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—A few figures and a third pair of eyes give an insight into the change in the railroad industry and into the railroad-union dispute which stems directly from that change.

The railroads argue that in bygone days they needed firemen far more than now.

In 1940 there were about 40,000 steam locomotives but only about 800 diesel engines. Now there are 29,000 diesel engine units but only 112 steam locomotives.

THEREFORE, the railroads say, being forced to keep about 40,000 firemen on their payrolls to ride the diesels is strictly featherbedding.

There's a distinction between the 40,000 firemen in diesels hauling freight cars and another 6,000 firemen riding diesels which haul passenger cars.

On the freight diesel two men ride up front with the engineer: the brakeman and the fireman. The engineer rides on the right.

One of the other two men can watch on the left side. The railroads say there is no need for a third pair because the brakeman can watch the left.

BUT ON a diesel hauling passenger cars, only the engineer and fireman ride up front.

A 15-man commission appointed by President Eisenhower in 1962 agreed firemen on freight diesels aren't needed but said firemen on the passenger diesels should be kept. The railroads accepted that.

But the commission also said: The rules and working condition set up long ago by the unions and the railroads are out of date because of modern technology which means, among other things, increased mechanization like diesels.

So the commission recommended the unions and railroads get together and through bargaining bring the whole business of rules, jobs and working conditions up to date. It hasn't happened.

"Why do we allow the extremists to take over all the time?"

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Zoning of 70 Mill Valley marshland acres for recreation was proposed by the city planning commission, debated by the city council, but no action taken because of fears the plan was "a little ambitious."

"The right way to reduce tolls is five cents at a time," declared Golden Gate Bridge District director Jesse Colman of San Francisco in urging the bridge board to cut its 40-cent toll to 35 cents. Colman had urged the governor to veto the McCarthy bill making a 25-cent toll mandatory.

20 YEARS AGO

Maj. Allen V. DeMartini returned to his Mill Valley home with the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and four Air Medals, together with word that the Flying Fortress he pilots is known as "The Dry Martini."

San Rafael received word that after months of revising petitions, the city's application for $14,620 in state money for recreation purposes under the Lanham Act had been approved.

TREASURE LOST ON LAST LAP

Valuable rock specimens that had survived a 300-mile trip across Antarctic wastes and a several thousand mile sea journey, were lost shortly after reaching Southampton, England.

Two British explorers on a geological research proect in the Antarctic had painstakingly chipped out the rock specimens, packed them on dogsleds and struggled back to their base. Then they had loaded their precious finds on a ship that had to fight its way out of an ice pack before reaching the open sea

After the boat had docked, the precious cargo disappeared. When informed of this, the head of the British Antarctic survey program made this comment: "I am very annoyed about it. To think of it, all the way back from the Antiarctic, 9,000 solid miles, only to get lost between Southampton and Birmingham University."

Nothing can be taken for granted in the battle of life. Too much is at stake to let down your guard even momentarily. Rather than jeopardize your hard won gains for time or for eternity, be vigilant under all circumstances.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Public Lands For Library

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Mill Valley's City Dads, Parks and Recreation commissioners and Library Board members are to be congratulated for "leaning toward" common ene in the selectiton of Mill Valley's site for a new library.

It now begins to appear that cogitations of officialdom favor the use of public lands for a site, rather than pursuing the self-defeating course of asking taxpayers for $100,000 to buy more land, thus removing more land from the city taxrolls at a critical time in our city's economy.

The decision—if it is, indeed, a decision—is just cause for everybody who loves a library AND an improved park area, to fling their hats in the air. Now if City Dads will only expedite the library, they shall have done nothing but cover themselves and Mill Valley with glory.

Some people who should know better are saying that trend-wise our parkland areas are being diminished.

Not true!

Let the record show that never in its history has Mill Valley possessed more parklands than are now in use; for with the development of Project 17-Acres in the Marshlands, historically, Mill Valley's useful park areas were quadrupled in a single stroke!

It was the brains and brawn and imagination of Parks and Recreation Commissioner Joseph Brewster, supported by the practical muscle of Southern Marin Horsemen's Assn. members, which installed the riding ring in the Marshlands.

(Does this riding ring constitute an expansion of the Parks and Recreation function? It does.)

Also, it was the good humore and wisdom of Mayor Robert Huber's administration which cooperated with and encouraged the filling of Marshland acres, thus permitting development of a baseball diamond there — totally by citizen effort and without cost to the taxpayer.

(Was this action not an addition to, rather than a diminishing of Parks and Recreation functions and facilities? Why, then, the erroneous assertions that our parks are being diminished?)

If City Dads should decide to install the new library in Old Mill Park at a place where bay trees, not redwood trees, will be removed—and at a place already dangerously and grotesquely underdeveloped and in non-use—all reasonable persons will acknowledge that they have gained a library and improved a park, rather than diminished a park.

This is the time for all Mill Valley organizations to offer their support to Mayor Joseph Sheeks and his colleagues in their determination to build a new library in keeping with Mill Valley's opinion of its own worth.

City Editor Confers An Accolade On Old-Time Marin Officials

GONE are the old familiar faces. . .

The death of Walter Castro brings into sharp focus the fact that many long-familiar faces have disappeared of late from Marin's public life.

There is, of course, constant change among public figures. A fairish percentage of officials fail to serve out their first elective or appointive term. Yet among the multitude of office holders, a solid cadre generally remains for years in the public eye and the public trust (no mean accomplishment).

Even in such a growing, surging, metamorphosing society as Marin's, these serve through term after term. They become symbolic in their lifetimes. They are the ones you can count on.

EVERY SO OFTEN, however, death and retirement sweep suddenly through the ranks of these familiar figures. Almost without our realizing it, a chapter ends; and a new chapter begins with a new, unfamiliar cast of characters.

This seems to be such a time.

Walter Castro had been 12 years a supervisor, and for something like 40 years a public figure.

Death came for him unexpectedly, as it had within recent months to George Jones, whose 27-year regime as county clerk was so long it outlasted the memories of most residents, and to Leon deLisle, for a quarter century the county auditor.

Another such long career in county government ended last year with retirement of Frank Donohue after 32 years in the tax collector's office.

CAREERS NOT quite so long, but certainly long enough that the officials became familiar, dependable figures were closed by retirements of others such as Planning Director Mary Summers, County Fire Chief Charles Reilley, and Agricultural Commissioner Tom Peryam.

When Bill Fusselman looks about him in new Civic Center or old courthouse, he sees few indeed who were there when he was first elected to the board of supervisors 21 years ago.

This disappearance of the old order has been going on also in the city governments —beginning there, in fact, a little earlier.

Within the past few years, two police chiefs who had been in office since their cities were mere villages have stepped into retirement: Don Wood in San Anselmo and Jim McGowan in Mill Valley. Death took Chief Andy Peri of Fairfax. Of the "old time chiefs" in Marin police departments, only Joseph Regoni in Ross remains in office.

THE LONGEST career of any Marin fire chief closed on June 20 of this year with retirement of Nello Marcucci of San Anselmo. Last of the old time fire chiefs is Matts Perry, 19 years in Sausalito.

Run through the rolls of city councils and the only real longtime perennial to be found is Mayor Art Smith of San Anselmo, now starting his third council decade.

And what incumbent school board member can match the 33-year tenure of Ada Fusselman before her retirement from the Marin Junior College District board? Or what superintendent can match the 18-year span of Ward Austin before he retired from that same district?

THE "NEW LOOK" is more than merely a change of name on the desk, too. There is a different character to the new officials—as there must be, for they represent a different age. Marin's bucolic past means little to them; they weren't around when it happened.

SOME SORT of special accolade is due the "old timers," both those still in office and those gone, for the roles they played in developing Marin from that bucolic past to its palpitating present. The upstarts and the newcomers may often have become impatient with them, but they served us well through trying times. People knew where they stood, and what they stood for.

One is tempted to say we may never see their likes again. But we shall. Out of the impatient, aggressive newer generation of officials there will rise a few who will remain, who will become in their turn the "old guard," the "fixtures," the men the next generation will instinctively depend on.

There must. For only in such men is the hope and salvation of democratic local government.

HENRY MacARTHUR COLUMN

Is Discrimination Back-Firing?

SACRAMENTO—Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad (R-Hollywood) minority floor-leader of the house, has charged that the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People is now seeking to have the very law the association helped create violated by the motion picture industry of California.

Conrad, who is an actor and close to the fields of television and motion pictures, says he is requesting an opinion from Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk concerning his contention. His objective, he indicated, is to halt a possible law violation, and also to protect the people in the industry who have seniority.

The NAACP, says Conrad, has demanded that unless the technical crew filming the television play "Hazel" includes at least one Negro, the association will boycott the Ford Motor Co. which sponsors the television show.

SCREEN GEMS is the producer of "Hazel". Officers of the producing company replied to the threat that the technical crews for its television production are obtained through local craft unions. It will accept any qualified person sent by the union, Conrad said, and is in accordance with the provisions of the Fair Employment Practices Act which originally was designed to eliminate discrimination in employment.

"This," said Conrad, "did not satisfy James Tolbert, president of the Beverly Hills chapter of NAACP. His statement was 'if the person paying the bill says I want a Negro in the crew, it will happen.'

"This is a flagrant violation of the California Labor code.

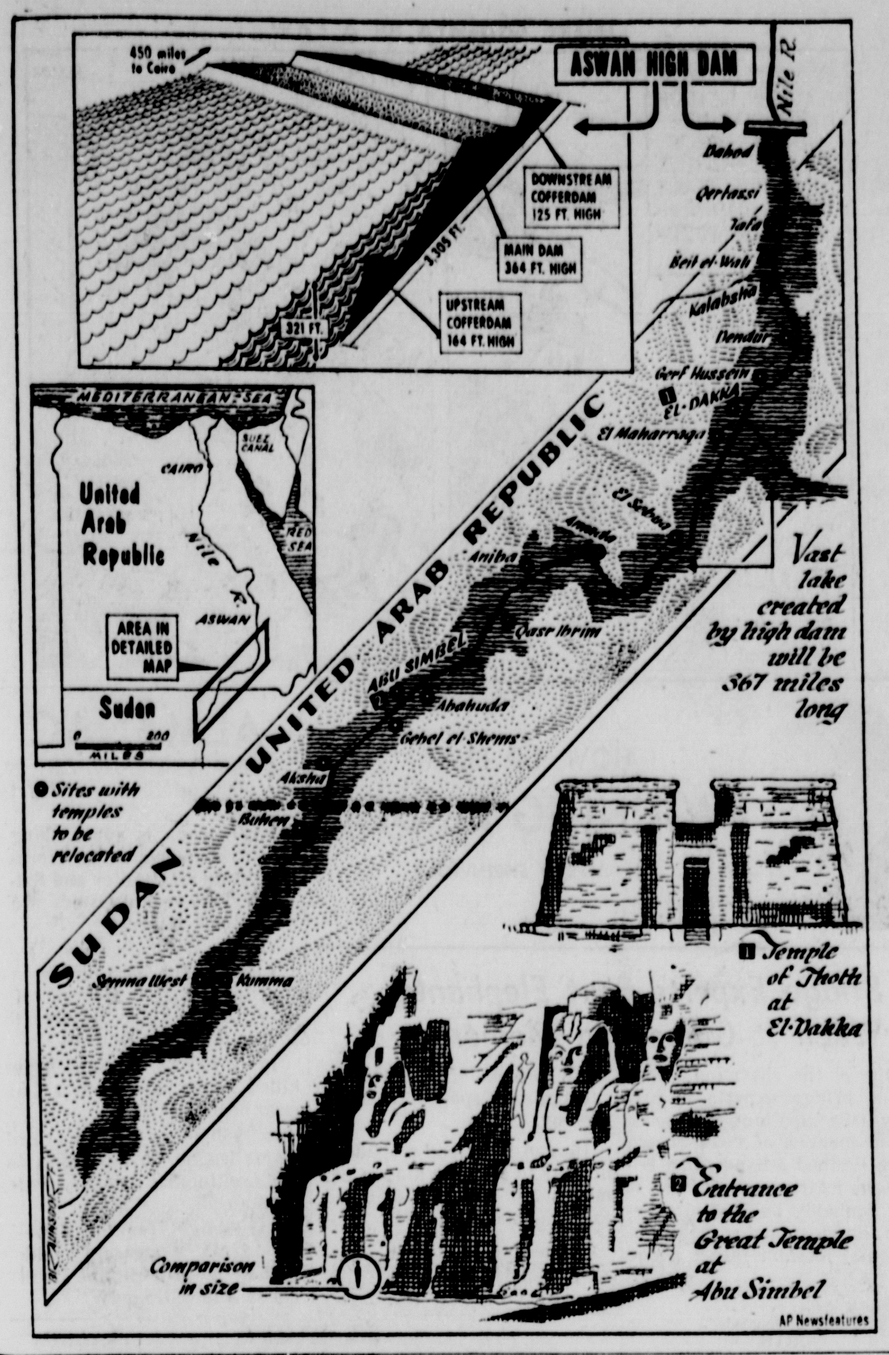
"The Ford Motor Co. is placed in the impossible position of facing a boycott unless it violates the state labor code, or facing prosecution if it does."

THE DEMAND for a Negro on the technical crew, Conrad said, could easily result in displacing other workers who have had long seniority, and who by right of having done a satisfactory job normally would be entitled under union rules and regulations to keep the job.

Apparently the NAACP has changed its thinking on the Fair Employment Practices Act. When the act was adopted some four years ago, it was argued that there was a need for ending discrimination against the minority groups, including Negroes.

Now the Negro organization, through its attack on the motion picture industry, is arguing per se for discrimination in favor of the Negro.

Outdoor Museum Due Flooding



By GEORGE McARTHUR

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—What many scholars call the greatest open air museum in the world will soon be flooded by water building up behind the Aswan High Dam.

The dam will create a vast lake which will completely cover the ancient "Land of Wawat" and part of the "Land of Kush," two provinces which flourished almost 3,000 years ago.

Even before the time of Wawat and Kush, the area was the rich meeting place on the Nile for Egyptians pushing south against already flourishing civilizations of the upper river.

The vast lake will be 367 miles long, the whole of it studded with historic wealth. While the great temples of Abu Simbel have caught the world's attention as the most eye-catching site to be flooded, there are about 60 temples and monuments almost as well known to archaeologists—plus many more of lesser interest and an untold number still undiscovered beneath the sands.

Scholars feel that most of the important knowledge to be gained from the area has already been unearthed. But some mysteries remain and there will always be the nagging possibility of some unfound treasure waiting hopelessly to be discovered.

The Land of Kush, for example, now has little chance to become better known. Its Kings ruled all of Egypt for a century before 656 B.C., yet relatively little is known of them. Now they seem slated to go largely unsung through the pages of history.

The scholars would also like to have a better idea of what went on in the area of Kush and Wawat some 5,200 years ago. That is the date now indicated when the Egyptians first pushed into the area. But much evidence is still inconclusive, and now seems likely to remain so.

Time is pressing for the scholars.

Though the Aswan High Dam won't be fully completed until 1970, the first stages are now well along. The Nile will start to rise behind the new dam within the next 12 months, inching up steadily thereafter.

Eventually the lake will hold 130 billion cubic meters of water—the largest man-made reservoir in the world.

The project will give Egypt's impoverished millions another million acres of irrigated farmland and furnish more electricity than the whole country now uses.

In addition to the lost antiquities, all this will cost one billion dollars and cause the displacement of 50,000 Nubians now living in the area. They, too, must start moving soon.

New areas for them have been prepared in both Egypt and the Sudan. The new villages will be given the same names as the old and wherever possible they will be grouped in similar patterns so the farmers will have the same neighbors. This has a practical aspect in an area where family feuds are common. The authorities see no need in disrupting old associations and possibly starting new disputes.

Meanwhile, the archaeologists are busy carting away what they can from the threatened valley.

Though the fate of Abu Simbel seems likely to remain in doubt until the last moment, many other temples, monuments and treasures will be saved. Some have already been dismantled and crated up until new sites are agreed.

Intensive work has been underway for more than two years to map, sketch and photograph everything of value in the area. Long before the Nile rises, every inscription in the valley will be recorded.

Much of the work in under the supervision of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). Egyptian and Sudanese regulations permitting private expeditions to keep half their archaeological loot have attracted diggers from all over the world.

The main projects, including saving Abu Simbel, would cost at least 86 million dollars. Of this, 10 million dollars to relocate some 23 tempies is already being spent. The United States has pledged, subject to congressional approval, six million dollars to save the temples on the Island of Philae and 1.5 million dollars has been given for other purposes.

The Egyptian government has given and pledged the equivalent of 10 million dollars also. The rest must come from other international pledges.

But when it is all finally settled, the great dam and its vast reservoir will themselves constitute monuments more valuable to Egypt than anything lost beneath the Nile.

U.S. Doesn't Like Japan-Red China Trading

But W. Germany, Norway, Britain Seen In Shanghai

By ROBERT CRABBE

TOKYO (UPI)—Freighters flying the Rising Sun flag glide daily out of Japan's harbors into the blue Pacific—headed for Communist China.

Stowed in their holds are economic vitamins that China, big but industrially flabby, needs to harden her bones and strengthen her muscles.

At ports like Shanghai and Tsingtao, the Japanese ships unload fertilizer for Red China's communal farms and steel for her tractors. There are insecticides to protect the crops that the Chinese Communists desperately need to feed their people.

Returning to Japan, the freighters carry Red Chinese coal, pig iron and soy beans. All of these Japan could buy—albeit at higher prices—in the non-Communist world.

The United States doesn't like it. U. S. policy is that anybody who trades with China is strengthening a menacing international bully.

"Americans feel that it is incongruous to trade with a country of such unstable behavior as Communist China," says a State Department career man whose duties at the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo keep him in close touch with Far Eastern trade.

He adds that there are no signs that the American viewpoint is going to change.

A questioner asks him how China, industrially backward and still in the infancy of atomic research, can be regarded as a threat to the United States.

"Great powers don't get powerful overnight," is the answer. "It's a slow process of accretion, of adding little increments of power here and there. If you're going to get tough with them, the time to do it is in the beginning."

American diplomats in Tokyo have not hesitated to make the U.S. view on Red China trade known to the Japanese public. But so far, the United States has made no move to apply the economic pressure that it obviously could put on Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's government.

One reason is that when the Japanese freighters dock in China, they have a lot of company. A cargo ship from Yokohama may well be found sharing a Shanghai pier with a merchantman from Norway, Britain, France or West Germany.

The fact is that the United States has encountered a great deal of difficulty in selling its allies on boycotting Red China.

Last year Japan's two-way trade with Red China reached 80 million dollars with Japan selling about 36 million dollars worth of goods and buying about 40 million dollars worth.

This year, the two-way flow is expected to be worth about 150 million dollars. It still is substantially below the level of the 1930s, Japan's great period as a trading partner of China.

From 1930 to 1939 two-way trade between China and Japan annually averaged 214 million dollars. On the average, Japan traded with China at an annual deficit of 17 million dollars because Japan needed Chinese raw materials worse than China needed Japanese goods.

In the foreseeable future, China is quite unlikely to play as large a role in the Japanese economy as it did in pre-war days. The Chinese simply haven't got enough money to buy much in Japan. China can offer raw materials rather than cash, but its ability to do so is limited by two things.

In the first place, China is not richly endowed with natural resources. In the second, Japan now has other sources of supply in the west. However, traders in both London and Tokyo believe Red China will provide an improving market for the things they have to sell.

L. E. Ross, secretary of the British legation in Peking, reported recently that there were good prospects China would eventually be "a major importer of capital goods."

Britain's China Export Assn. noted in its last annual report that nations of the Communist bloc now account for only 47 per cent of China's foreign trade—a drop of 21 per cent since 1959. The implication is that China's difficulties with the Soviet Union are forcing her to buy in the non-Communist world.

Britain's sources in Red China report that a substantial 1962 harvest and good 1963 prospects should enable China to spend less on food imports and more on factory equipment.

This view was borne out when a Canadian grain trading mission recently returned home from China empty-handed. The Chinese have been paying cash for Canada's wheat for three years. Now they are demanding that Canada accept part payment in goods, a sign that the Chinese at least feel strong enough to bargain.

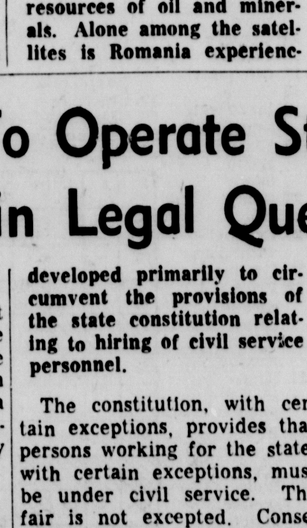
PORT OF TRADE—This is a section of Shanghai in Communist China where Japan and other countries, many from Europe carry on trade. The U.S. is opposed. This is part of the Soochow Creek area as seen from the 17th floor of the Cathay Mansion, a hotel, not far from the main port area. (AP Wirephoto)

Romania Plays Subtle Poker Hand To Gain More Industrial Rights

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Romania, traditionally docile member of the Moscow-controlled bloc of European satellites, has taken an ambiguous stand in the Sino-Soviet conflict.

Unlike the other European satellites, Romania has steered clear of open commitment in the ideological dispute between Moscow and Peking. But she has made a number of friendly gestures towards Red China and Albania in recent months. Coupled with the silence of Romania's strongman party chief, Gheorge Gheorgiu-Dej, there has been speculation about the country's loyalty to the Kremlin.



GHEORGE GHEORGIU-DEJ
Absent from summit

Dej's demonstrative absence from a summit meeting of satellite leaders with Premier Nikita Khrushchev in East Berlin this summer occasioned additional surprise.

There is little reason to assume that Romania is turning against Russia. The signs are rather that Romania is playing a subtle poker game in an effort to get better terms from Moscow.

Romania, "liberated" by the Red armies at the end of World War II, was made to pay a high price to Moscow under the regime of Josef Stalin. Romanian oil and food were taken for Russia on a heavy scale.

Of late, Romania, freed by Khrushchev from such extortion, has embarked on a major industrialization drive, based on her considerable resources of oil and minerals. Alone among the satellites is Romania experiencing an economic boom. She has achieved the greatest relative degree of productivity in the whole of Europe, including the West.

So Bucharest has decided to push ahead with industrialization to balance the country's hitherto prevailing agricultural economy. But this policy runs counter to the Soviet bloc economic alignment of the satellites—Comecon—which wants Romania and Bulgaria—another of the satellites—to leave industrialization to Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany.

Romania resenuts this policy. The move is basically nationalist and not in keeping with Marxist demands for socialist division of labor. But the signs are that Romania, encouraged apparently by the more independent policies of Poland and Hungary, has taken things into her own hands and is holding out for a Romanian-type Communism.

She wants to determine her own economic structure. Beyond this, she wants to have a freer hand in trading with the West as well as with the Communist East.

New Way To Operate State Fair Poses Certain Legal Questions

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It seems unfortunate that the procedural authority for the new California State Exposition and Fair starts out under a constitutional cloud, a situation admitted by the attorney general's office.

But despite the cloud, Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed the measure providing for a corporation to operate the fair under State Department of Finance authority at an initial investment of 33 million dollars. Not all of this is out of taxpayer funds.

The measure, by Sen. Albert Rodda (D-Sacramento) calls for the formation of a non-profit corporation to operate the fair. This bill attempts to operate the fair through the medium of a private corporation, but so encompassed by rules and regulations provided in the law that the state in the long-run will be the final dictator on all operations.

The corporation idea was developed primarily to circumvent the provisions of the state constitution relating to hiring of civil service personnel.

The constitution, with certain exceptions, provides that persons working for the state, with certain exceptions, must be under civil service. The fair is not excepted. Consequently, if the corporation idea is carried out, employees of the fair would work for the corporation, but eventually probably would participate in all the benefits accorded state employees.

This, however, is only one of the constitutional questions arising from the bill.

The other one is the statement of the governor that the attorney general, in his review of the bill, said "there could be a constitutional question involved if the corporation were given special immunity." The governor said, in brushing over the question, that "the corporation would be a public entity, operating under strict controls by the department of finance."

The constitution says specifically that "the state shall not in any manner loan its credit, nor shall it subscribe to or be interested in the stock of any company, association or corporation (except mutual water companies.)" (Sec. 13, Article XII)

Another section (Sec. 21, Art. I) specifies that no privileges or immunities shall ever be granted to citizens, or groups of citizens. A corporation constitutes a group of citizens.

But, in Rodda's bill ,Sec. 78.8 (a), the state fair corporation is granted immunity for real or personal property, also possessory interest, from taxation by the state or its subdivisions. Other sections of the bill give the corporation the right to hold property.

Observers conclude that an irate taxpayer might have a good case in court.

Partial Test Ban Week's Highlight

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

On Dec. 30, 1959, Premier Nikita Khrushchev said the Soviet Union had suspended nuclear tests and would not resume them unless the Western powers did so.

But in September, 1961, the Russians began a series of tests that was concluded with the detonation of a 50 megaton device.

So on March 2 President John F. Kennedy announced in a nationwide radio-television speech that the United States regrettably was forced to resume nuclear testing.

And from that day forward the United States began searching for ways to achieve some kind of a ban.

The moratorium between the United States and the Soviet Union which was violated was an unwritten agreement.

And when the Russians broke it, Khrushchev blamed the West.

Not so many days ago, after Kennedy had said in a speech that the two major nations should seek to lessen tension, Khrushchev came forth with a plan for a partial test ban.

It seemed as though it would be a fruitless mission, because the United States and Russia had failed to reach any agreements in years of negotiating at Geneva, but Kennedy sent Averell Harriman to Moscow.

This time the atmosphere was cordial and in 10 days an agreement was reached, calling for a partial ban —no testing in the water, in the atmosphere and in space beyond the atmosphere.

Last night Kennedy urged the American people to accept the pact as "an important first step toward peace."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Bridge Experts Beat Elephants When It Comes To Memories

One of the charming things about bridge experts is that they have such long memories.

One member of a well-known team flubbed a hand in an important match recently, and it will probably be 10 years before his teammates (and opponents) let him forget about it.

West opened the king of clubs, and our expert friend ruffed in dummy.

He thought he could make the slam if East had the king of spades, and perhaps even if not, so he led a small spade from dummy.

NOT GOOD

It was not a good idea. East stepped up with the king of spades, and West thoughtfully discarded a diamond to make it quite clear that he wasn't following suit.

East led another spade, of course, and West ruffed to defeat the slam.

"There must have been another way to play it," North remarked with some bitterness.

OTHER WAY

"He'd have made it if I hadn't led a spade right back," East pointed out helpfully. Nobody thanked him for his comment.

There was another way to play the hand, depending only on a 4-3 break of the missing diamonds.

The odds favor this by almost 2 to 1.

CASH ACE

After ruffing the first club in dummy, declarer should cash the ace of trumps and the ace of diamonds.

He ruffs a diamond in his hand, ruffs another club in dummy, and ruffs another diamond in his hand.

Now South can draw three more rounds of trumps, discarding low spades from the dummy.

He can then lead a spade to dummy to cash the king of diamonds and the last diamond, fulfilling the slam.

KENNEDY STORY—This is a scene from the Technicolor presentation of "PT-109" which tells of the dramatic adventures of President John F. Kennedy as a young PT boat commander in the South Pacific during World War II.

HIGH DRAMA—This is PT boat 109. A Japanese Zero plane, as shown in the film "PT-109," tries to drop a bomb. The film's cast includes Cliff Roberton as Kennedy, and Ty Hardin and Grant Williams.

Great Film Fare Lined Up For Marin Summertime

IN PACIFIC—Taking a walk toward the camera in "Donovan's Reef" are (left to right) Lee Marvin, Dorothy Lamour, Elizabeth Allen, John Wayne, Jack Warden and Caesar Romero, and two children who also have parts. Miss Allen plays the part of a proper Bostonian who arrives in a small Pacific isle to find what has become of her father.

A parade of summer films have been lined up by the Rafael Theater, manager Al Goodwin said today.

The unusual series of first-run hits will kick-off Wednesday with "PT-109," film version of President John F. Kennedy's wartime exploits, Goodwin said. It will be followed by these exceptional pictures:

"Donovan's Reef," the rough-and-tumble story of two ex-GIs who stayed in the Pacific, starring John Wayne and Lee Marvin.

"Irma La Douce," Billy Wilder's bawdy, boisterous Parisian comedy starring Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine.

"The Longest Day," Darryl Zanuck's monumental re-enactment of D-Day in Normandy — with 42 big names.

"Come Blow Your Horn," film version of the stage success starring Frank Sinatra, Lee J. Cobb and Barbara Rush.

"Thrill of It All," a smash comedy that pokes fun at television, family life and status seekers; Doris Day and James Garner head a big cast.

"For Love or Money," another sassy comedy starring Kirk Douglas, Mitzi Gaynor and Julie Newamr.

In San Anselmo, Goodwin said, the Tamalpais Theater will be carrying on its own outstanding summer program, to be launched Aug. 1 with "The Longest Day."

"Gidget Goes To Rome," another in the marvelous series of teen farces, will follow.

Then will come Lillian Hellman's emotional drama, "Toys in the Attic," with Dean Martin, Geraldine Page and Gene Tierney.

LONGEST DAY — Peter Lawford, Richard Todd and Frank Howard are three members of the cast of "The Longest Day" a war film that is to make the circuits this summer in Marin.

THEY'RE AT IT AGAIN—Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine, stars of "The Apartment," join forces again with director Billy Wilder in the technicolor film "Irma La Douce." It is adopted from the stage hit which set long-run records in New York, London and Paris.

PACKED FULL OF ACTION—The roadshow production of "The Longest Day" is being brought to Marin County this summer. A cast of 42 international stars recreate all the action and suspense of D-Day during World War II.

Giant Pennant Hopes Rekindled After 6-4 Win

Pennant hopes of the San Francisco Giants soared higher today, buoyed by their fifth straight victory, a 6-4 triumph over Pittsburgh on Chuck Hiller's ninth inning homer.

Hiller, a hero last fall with the National League's first grand slam homer in a World Series, had hit only one since that fourth game against the New York Yankees.

A goat to start last night's game with two errors and hitting only .192, the left-handed hitting second baseman furnished a dramatic conclusion to the contest as he scored Orlando Cepeda ahead of him.

Coupled with the 6-5 victory by Philadelphia over the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers, the big hit moved the third place Giants up to 6½ games off the pace, a gain of two since they opened their home stand Tuesday.

The Giants and the Candlestick Park crowd of 27,017 weren't sure for several seconds that Hiller's hit was out of the park. Roberto Clemente banged into the fence going after it and fell. Cepeda held up at second and Hiller stopped his journey around the bases until it was determined the ball had fallen on the other side of the fence.

"I hit it good and thought it had a chance to go out, but I just didn't know," the infielder declared. "I hit a fast ball, but it was a long time before anybody knew where it went."

Clemente explained, "I hit the fence and fell before I had a chance to jump for the ball."

Hiller's blow came off the Pirates' ace reliever Roy Face and cost him his sixth loss of the campaign. Jack Fisher, the fourth Giant hurler, gained his fifth victory.

"We've got to win more like that," commented Manager Alvin Dark whose club stood 10 behind the Dodgers just one week ago. Today he nominated his ace hurler Juan Marichal (16-5) to oppose the Pirates and Bob Friend (11-9).

Hiller, after a .278 hitting year in 1962 and his grand slam in the World Series, has been having troubles this season. He broke a hand early in the campaign and hasn't been able to regain either his batting or fielding form. Earlier in the week, Dark moved third baseman Jim Davenport to second and had Hiller on the bench.

Against the Pirates, Davenport was back at third and sent the Giants into a 2-0 lead with a second inning homer.

The Giants twice took the lead before Hiller made it stick. Davenport's blast, his fourth of the season, gave them a 2-0 edge at the expense of Don Cardwell in the second inning.

Pittsburgh then moved in front with a three-run rally against Billy O'Dell in the fourth, featuring four singles and an error by Willie McCovey at first base.

After the Giants tied it in their half of the fourth, on Matty Alou's pinch single, McCovey moved further ahead in the National League home run race by lacing his 30th of the season off Cardwell in the fifth. It was a powerful, bases empty blast that carried some 400 feet over the left center field barrier.

The Pirates then tied the score in the eighth on Johnny Logan's triple and a single by Bill Virdon.

Pittsburgh left 13 men on base and failed to score with the bases loaded on three occasions.

Catching An Octopus Bare-Handed; Troppmann Tells About All-Stars

I always thought Dibranchiate Cepalopods was a Greek philosopher until I thumbed through this month's Pageant Magazine, only to learn ol' D.C. happens to be octopuses.

The article caught my eye because it happens to be all about my ol' buddie Lou Sabella, the Southern Marin restaurant man, and his recipe for curried octopus. Now, how would you like to come home from a hard day at the office and have the little old wife say you're going to have curried octopus for dinner? Powee, the first woman astronaut.

Anyway, they say it's yummy-good and they can have it; this kid will stick to corned beef and cabbage.

To eat the stuff must take an awfully strong stomach, but to catch the menu is another story.

The Pageant article tells about Lou's hunting trips in waters about 60 to 75 feet deep off the Mendocino coast. The octopus, the story goes, is fast and has a dangerous beak and suction cups that can inflict painful wounds. Lou catches them bare-handed by grabbing an arm as they speed by and wrestling them back to shore.

Oh, dear, that Lou is a tiger of a man. And I always thought he was the gentle type.

Incidentally, there's a portrait in Pageant of Lou posing with an octopus. Lou's the one on the right.

YOU KNOW how a fat man looks at a smorgasbord?

That just about sums up Bob Troppmann's feeling about coaching the North squad for next Thursday's North-South Shrine football classic in the L. A. Coliseum.

I talked with Redwood's Tropp this morning and the coach, speaking by 'phone from the UCLA training camp, was drooling over the talent at his disposal. "I tell you, Jim," he gushed, "I've had a lot of good players in my coaching career —a few each year. But HERE I have 25 great ones on one team. I've never seen such big guys . . . terrific guys . . . they're all choice kids."

Tropp said his son, Jim, has ". . . about a 50-50 chance of getting the starting assignment" at quarterback. "If the game were today he wouldn't start, but he's coming along," he said.

KTVU (Channel 2) will televise the game at 8:30 p.m. next Thursday.

Fraley was in a plush hotel's pool swimming and saved a man from drowning.

When the Leones praised Fearless Fraley, the columnist just shrugged, "It was really nothing, fellas, I just saw this guy walking along the bottom of the pool, so I took him by the hand and led him to the top."

RADIO KTIM has arranged for all players in today's Little League consolation and championship playoffs at Twin Cities to be guests of the Giants next Wednesday when they play the Phillies. One adult for every five boys also be admitted free.

AND SPEAKING of the Giants and their trailing position in the N.L., fans have come up with a new battle cry: "Wait 'til LAST year."

OVERHEARD at Richmond Auditorium following the telecast of the Liston-Patterson thing: "Hell, my wife and I have had better fights than that."

A TOM SWIFTY note that appeared mysteriously on my desk this morning. "Why, Willie Mays is just like a son to me," Alvin said darkly.

Seems to me that's a bit aged, like the one about the Giants going to trade Mays for Aunt Jemima because she's a better batter.

ANOTHER Tom Swifty popped up in Don Nivens' "Bastille by the Bay" column in the San Quentin News, to wit: "A con sat down upon an active power mower. 'The pain is terrific,' he moans, endlessly."

Disaster!

NOW THERE'S A S-T-R-E-T-C-H FOR YOU

Baltimore first baseman Jim Gentile gave it the big stretch as he received a throw to double Mike Hershberger off first base in game last night at Baltimore. The Chicago outfielder had walked to lead off the sixth inning but was doubled up when teammate Nellie Fox hit a line drive to second baseman Bob Johnson. Baltimore won 6-0.

Alvin Angry At Cepeda?

Manager Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants looked angry today over some zany base-running that featured Chuck Hiller's two-run homer which beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-4, in the ninth inning last night.

After right fielder Roberto Clemente had made a vain leap for the ball then fell prone, Orlando Cepeda—who was on first base—slowed down when he passed second and began looking toward the fence. Hiller stopped behind him and both stood between third and second until Dark came out of the dugout and waved them around.

"You better ask Cepeda," Dark said briefly when asked about the play, and would not elaborate.

The slumping first baseman, who had led off the ninth with a pinch single, said, "I thought Clemente had caught the ball. I didn't want to take any chances, see?"

WHAT HAPPENED?

"Nobody knew what happened to the ball," Hiller said. "Finally I asked umpire Bill Jackowski at second if it had gone over and he said it had."

The blow—and ensuing traffic jam — ruined a record smashing appearance by relief veteran Elroy Face. When he took over in the eighth inning, he set a major league record of 360 appearances without a start. The string began on July. 1957. Hoyt Wilhelm of the Chicago White Sox held the old mark of 359.

Cards' Gibson Wins Again

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shout the praises of Sandy Koufax. Sing paeans for Warren Spahn. Make a case for Juan Marichal.

But don't ignore Sam Gibson when it comes time to cast your vote for National League pitcher of the year.

Gibson doesn't have the glittering record of Koufax or Marichal and he hasn't pitched as spectacularly as Spahn, but there isn't a hotter pitcher in the league.

The 27-year-old St. Louis right-hander pitched a four-hitter and posted his fifth straight victory yesterday as the Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1 and closed to within five games of the first place Los Angeles Dodgers, who dropped a 6-5 decision to Philadelphia.

It was Gibson's 11th victory in his last 12 decisions. He hasn't lost since May 19, when Cincinnati beat him 10-6. His season record is 12-4.

San Francisco's third place Giants also gained on the Dodgers with a 6-4 triumph over Pittsburgh. The Giants' fifth straight triumph advanced them to within 6½ games of the top. Cincinnati's Reds shellacked Milwaukee 11-1 and moved past the Cubs into fourth place, 7½ games off the pace.

Houston inflicted the 20th straight road defeat on New York's cellar-dwelling Mets, 7-3. The loss gave the Mets undisputed possession of the modern major league record. They had been tied with the 1916 Philadelphia Athletics at 19 road losses each.

Ken Boyer paced the Cards' nine-hit attack against former Cardinals Paul Toth and Dick LeMay with a home run and single, driving in two runs. The homer was his 13th of the campaign.

Gibson has beaten every team in the league at least once. The only other pitchers to make the cycle are the Cubs' Dick Ellsworth and the Giants' Marichal.

Tony Taylor drove in five runs in the Phillies' narrow triumph over the Dodgers. Lefty Chris Short allowed the Dodgers only five hits through seven innings but needed help from Jack Baldschun in the eighth. It was Short's third victory in 11 decisions.

The Reds bombarded five Milwaukee hurlers for 18 hits, including home runs by Pete Rose, Tommy Harper and Frank Robinson enabling southpaw Joe Nuxhall to coast to his eighth victory in 12 decisions.

Houston scored all seven runs in the first inning in handing the Mets their ninth straight loss. Tracy Stallard was the victim.

Dick Farrell, squaring his record at 8-8, went the route for the Colts with a six-hitter.

49ERS LABOR IN TORRID MORAGA HEAT

The San Francisco 49ers planned their first major scrimmage this afternoon with more torrid weather predicted for their Moraga training site.

Coach Red Hickey indicated some of his walking wounded would be on hand for the head-banging session.

Hickey emphasized passing yesterday in drills carried out in 94 degree heat. The combination of John Brodie throwing and Monte Stickles receiving drew raves from the coaches.

Ed Pine and Mike Dowdle —both linebackers — turned in some good defensive work. Both intercepted aerials.

Defensive tackle Charlie Krueger was expected to miss today's scrimmage due to a pulled muscle.

Pelicans To Play Pacifica Tomorrow

The Tiburon Pelicans will host the Pacifica Merchants in a semi-pro baseball game tomorrow at Judge Field. Game time is 2 p.m.

Manager Ed Vigno is considering Mike Wyman, Fred DeMartini or Jack Brewer for the pitching assignment. First baseman Bob Saap is leading the Pels at the plate with a .380 average, while all-purpose man John Barry is hitting .340.

San Rafael Softball Loop Opens Schedule On Monday

The San Rafael Recreation Department's three adult softball leagues will get under way Monday with the first of a series of double-headers which will be played every evening with the exception of Sundays and Labor Day through Sept. 7.

Three days of double-header playoff action will start Sept. 8. All games will be played at Albert Field at 7 and 9 p.m.

Eighteen teams are entered in the three leagues, with six in Class A, eight in Class B, and four in Class C. No admission will be charged to the games, and a concession stand will serve coffee, soft drinks and candy at all games.

Next week's schedule (with class in parentheses):

Monday: Post Office vs. Bowman Electric (B); Sohner Tree Service vs. Fairchild Semiconductors (A).

Tuesday: Presidio vs. Terra Linda Merchants (A); Old Mill Tavern vs. Perry's Delicatessen (B).

Wednesday: Bushers vs. Villa Lucchesi (B); North Bay Flag Distributors vs. Country Club Bowl (A).

Thursday: Seapoint Native Sons vs. San Rafael Native Sons (C); Dugout vs. Dempsey-Tegeler (B).

Friday: Sohner vs. Presidio (A); Country Club Bowl vs. Terra Linda Merchants (A).

Saturday: North Bay Distributors vs. Fairchild Semiconductors (A); Marin Municipal Water District vs. Kentfield Merchants (C).

S.R. Man Races At Vallejo Speedway

Art Cirimele of San Rafael will be driving his Hudson-powered "Special" and his Volvo-powered midget in competition tonight for an $8,000 purse at the Vallejo Speedway.

He will be assisted in the pits by his brother Ray of South San Francisco, and Speed Dillon and Bob Lombardi of San Rafael. Time trials start at 7:15 and the first heat goes off at 8:30. Midgets and modified stock cars will race alternately during the evening.

Veteran Wrestler Dies During Match

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jim Wright of Tucson, Ariz., a veteran pro wrestler, died last night during a tag team bout at Phoenix Madison Square Garden.

Promoter Al Fenn said Wright had just been tagged by partner Pancho Pico and was leaning against the ropes when he suddenly dived forward to the mat. Fenn said Wright apparently suffered a heart attack.

'Salesman' Picks Wrong Customer

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—A man trying to sell six packages of cigarettes at a reduced price picked the wrong prospective customer—an off-duty sheriff's deputy.

As a result, the salesman was held on suspicion of burglary and of being a fugitive.

Deputy Willie Reid said the man offered him cigarettes from two cardboard boxes filled with cigarettes, candy bars and gum, all hidden under a blanket in a car.

Terra Linda Girl In Skating Meet

Nina Howe, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Howe of 12 Trellis Drive, Terra Linda, is in Portland, Ore., for competition in the national roller skating championships today through Aug. 3.

Nina, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School, was a winner in the California State and Southwest Pacific Region junior dance roller skating championship held in Bakersfield.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia's football team lost six regulars and half its letterman for the 1963 season but expects to continue with a strong outfit headed by passing star Jerry Yost.

Luckless Hawkins Sets Pace In Western Open Tournament

CHICAGO (AP)—Fred Hawkins might be classed as the most luckless tournament golfer in history.

Since the Antioch, Ill., native turned professional in 1947, he has won only one tournament, the 1956 Oklahoma City Open.

"It irritates me," said the boyish-looking Hawkins, who will be 40 in another month. "I don't know why I can't win. I have finished second or third many times, but it seems I always manage to put in a bad round."

Hawkins' streak may be ready to end. He entered today's third round of the $50,000 Western Open with a four-stroke lead over the field.

Hawkins, who plays out of El Paso, Tex., and commutes 140 miles a day to and from his parents' Antioch home so "I can visit and get Mom's cooking," has mastered the par-71 Beverly Country Club course with a hot putter.

He was the first round leader with a 67, using only 23 strokes on the greens. He had a second round 68 with 2 putts for a halfway total of 135, seven under par.

At second in the race for a $10,000 first prize with 139 were the National Open champion, Julius Boros, with a second round of 67; 51-year-old Sam Snead (68), and Bob McCallister, 29, a pro since 1959 who has won only the Orange County, Calif., Open in 1961 (70).

At 140 were Arnold Palmer with a 67; Lionel Hebert and Joe Campbell. The Masters' and PGA champion, Jack Nicklaus, fell off the pace with a 74, for 143, while British Open winner Bob Charles was way back at 148.

The field was cut from 128 to 80 for today's third round with the cutoff at 150.

A year ago in the Western Open at Medinah in Chicago, Hawkins was one stroke off the lead after 36 holes with a 68-72-140. Then came one of those bad rounds that have been his hex—a 76. He wound up third in the tourney.

Sports A Year-'Round Drain On Customers' Hard Earned Dollars

RANDOL

Funny what some people will do for a buck. Or for an extra buck. And it's funny how many people will bounce a buck to see 'em do it. That is today's sporting scene. Except, with prosperity and inflation, who can buy a ticket for a buck?

Baseball training camps start in February, and you have to pay a stiff fee to see the practice games. During the regular season you wonder where all the fans come from. When the Dodgers play the Giants on an afternoon there is mighty little work ground out by the wheels of commerce.

And when the long season is finished the exhibitions, tours and winter leagues take over. Don't let that buck get away.

All around the country right now the football pros are banging heads in practice sessions. In the middle of summer, yet, with temperatures in the higher brackets. Already two games have been played before national audiences, and there are more coming up before you can turn the dial.

EVEN THE high school grads get in the act next Thursday in the L.A. Coliseum, and it will be sheer luck if the thermometer isn't pushing 100. The college footballers will be around until next February with every kind of bowl game imaginable. Passing thought: When will New York stage a Flushing Bowl?

Another month and the call will be out for the ice hockey and basketball pros to gather 'round, and the track and field laddies begin to think about getting in shape for the indoor meets. If any of the "minor" sports can think of an angle for publicity and public interest you'll just have to find another buck somewhere.

ACTUALLY, YOU can't blame a hungry owner or promoter for clawing his way into the money pile and trying to salt away a chunk of moola. In one way or another, we're all in the same business. And indications are that there are bad days ahead for some of the men have staked their pile on the fickle public palate.

8he current uprising of Ted Connolly and other 49ers is actually the first big crack in the slave trade of players. When R. C. Owens played out his option with the 49ers and started dickering for a better contract, you can bet the owners tried to teach him a lesson by keeping the price down or shutting him out.

THE NEXT big crack will be a double split. Pro baseball players will have their representatives tell the owners to shorten the season, arrange sensible travel schedules and cut down the exhibitions. Or else.

The same complaint will come from the ranks of basketball, and in this sport, failure of the owners to comply could easily result in a flat sit-down strike. Believe me, the players have a legitimate squawk. Don't forget that the bulk of the players are not in the big star millionaire bracket.

ON THE other end of the stick, owners like "poor" Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers find their taxes raised to three-quarters of a million smackers. Which he can afford as long as he has a winning franchise and Sandy Koufax. His experience will make other owners think twice before moving another franchise. Like to Oakland.

Boxing has been staggering on the brink for years, and the last two Liston-Patterson fights haven't helped any. Now the guess it that fans will pay $8 million to see a colorless Liston shut the mouth of a colorful Cassius Clay. Sort of like knocking out the teeth that that chew your food.

THE POINT is that we have trained ourselves to stand in line and lay down our bucks for the show that some promoter has convinced us will make us forget that we had to earn those bucks.

With automation, shorter work hours are inevitable. Which means more time to kill at more mind-numbing pastimes. Escape, they call it.

The fly in the golden ointment is the players themselves. They are going to want a share in the more money for less work, and they will get it. And we will all be better off in the end.

STRATEGY FOR SHRINE GAME

North co-coaches Bob Troppmann (left) of Redwood and Bob Berry of Willow Glen, San Jose, discuss offensive strategy with their quarterbacks for next Thursday's North-South Shrine football classic in Los Angeles. The quarterbacks are Coach Troppmann's son, Jim (second from right), also of Redwood, and Del Henry (26) of Merced. The intrastate game features the top 50 players in the state from last season. KTVU (Channel 2) will televise the game to Northern California at 8:30 p.m.

Wallace's '300' Overshadows Fine Scores At Greenbrae

Phil Wallace's 300 game last Friday was, needless to say, the highlight at Greenbrae Bowl last week. Although he had two splits in his other two games which kept them below 200, he still managed to breeze to the best three-game series with 688.

Wallace's great effort in his first game overshadowed some excellent bowling by Bill Kamp, Ken Carlton and Bill Rhodes. Kamp had the second best three-game series of 234-233-643, while Carlton had a 256 game and Rhodes one of 249. All were bowling in the Swiss Doubles League.

Bill Kundinger edged Carlton for the best series of four with his 218-215—810 in the Monday Men's Trio League. Carlton bowled 215—802 in Men's Trio play Tuesday.

Elinor Davis rolled the finest three-game series among the women, 558 topped by a 191 game. She was competing in the Solo Flighters League. Gerry Screechfield had the high game in women's play, 210 which she bowled in the Groggy Fours League.

The best series of four among the girls were rolled in 476 Scratch Trio action. Barbara Molseed dumped 713, with a high of 197, and Marilyn Epidendio was close with 191-699.

The week's results:

Meherin Woodcutters — George Dray 211—590; Hal Hocken 200; Ward Wisecarver 221.

SUMMER LEAGUES

Marin Catholic Wins Basketball Showdown

Marin Catholic won its showdown battle with Redwood and Cain's Tires rolled along in first place in the two Drake High summer basketball leagues this week.

The Wildcats tipped Redwood 42-40 on a last second basket by Tom Soden, who scored 16 points in the game. Dave Auerbach had 10 for Redwood. The loss dropped the Giants into a tie for second with San Rafael, which whipped Riordan 44-36 despite 16 points by the Crusaders' Bob Kent. Rich Ahern had 12 for the Bulldogs.

Tam downed Drake 38-30 in the other game that was played in the high school division. The Terra Linda Trojans had to forfeit their contest to Lick-Wilmerding when they couldn't field a complete team. Jami Bell scored 12 for the Indians, as did Bob Andrews and Rich Heneka for Drake.

Cain's swamped the Billings-Hutchison Builders 67-47 to remain unbeaten and a half-game ahead of Pinkie's Pizza. Pinkie's trounced Santa Rosa Junior College 77-51 as Joe McGrath poured in 20 points for the winners. Cain's had balanced scoring, with Stan Stewart leading the club with 11. Don Bowen had 14 for Billings-Hutchison.

The Old Soldiers and Shaefer's Ice Cream remained in contention, one game behind Cain's. The Soldiers had to go into overtime before they could top Don's Market 39-34. The game was tied 32-32 at the end of regulation time. Don Pinot tallied 16 for the Soldiers, including three in the overtime, while Chuck Connelly got 12 for Don's.

Shaefer's had an easier time taking a 57-42 victory over Eberhart's Service. Lynn Livie meshed 20 for Shaefer's and Dave Neumann topped Eberhart's with 15.

The standings in the adult league:

	W	L	GB
Cain's	5	0	—
Pinkie's	5	1	½

Match Versus Par On Marin Links

Mrs. Henry Helbig and Mrs. Maurice Salomon won the Big and Little Sister match vs. par tourney at the Marin Country Club Thursday with a plus four total. Mrs. James Prowell and Mrs. William Bailey were second with even par.

The tournament was scored by comparing the players' net scores (gross score minus handicap) and par. These teams trailed the leaders:

Mrs. A. E. Morris and Mrs. Herb Prodger, —5; Mrs. Walter Goldman and Mrs. Paul Buchholz, —6; Mrs. Fred Sanford and Mrs. Carl Sapia, —8; Mrs. Louis Compagno and Mrs. Jack McGerity, —9; Mrs. Aubrey Badson and Mrs. Aaron Bloom, —9; Mrs. John Keddy and Mrs. L. C. McConnell, —10, and Mrs. Russell Warlaw and Mrs. John McVey, —10.

M.V. Tennis Team Beats Belvedere

Mill Valley Tennis Club defeated the Belvedere Tennis Club in Junior Davis Cup Division II competition Thursday.

Results:

Singles—Carter Ingram (B) d. Andy Moffat (M.V.), 10-5; Bobby Klyce (M.V.) d. Johnny Mayer (B), 10-5; Dick Clark (M. V.) d. Bryce Costello (B), 105; Johnny Cook (M.V.) d. Andrew McElroy (B), 10-2; Terry Hansen (M.V.) d. Henry Outten (B), 10-7;

Doubles—Ingram-Mayer (B) d. Brant Hansen-Jan Brick (M.V.), 10-3; Ham Everts-Terry Hansen (M.V.) d. Costello-Outen (B), 10-8.

Crucial Games In Semi-Pro Circuit

The league-leading San Anselmo Merchants face another stiff challenge tomorrow afternoon when they host third-place Presidio at San Anselmo Memorial Park. With Presidio having to play a make-up tilt with winless Bermuda Palms that same morning and the second-place Billings-Hutchison Builders meeting Novato, there could be a drastic shakeup at the top of the standings.

The Presidio, 3-1, will send ace righthander John Jones against the Palms and Mike Cooney at 11:30 a.m. in San Francisco. After this game the soldiers will rush out to San Anselmo and take on the Merchants at 3:30. Art Meyer or Vince Pallavicini will hurl for the Merchants, who sport a 4-0 record, against the Presidio's Don Fukiwizu.

Billings-Hutchison, a half-game behind San Anselmo with a 4-1 mark, plan to start Jerry Walters or Bob DeRosa against Novato, who are tied with Presidio at 3-1 after losing a 9-8 battle to San Anselmo last Sunday. Manager Bill Kline intends to pitch for the Knickerbockers in the 1:30 p.m. game at Albert Field, San Rafael.

The whole tangled situation seems to depend upon the Presidio and particularly on its game with the leaders. San Anselmo would, of course, simplify matters greatly by winning this one.

The other game Sunday matches two also-rans, the Dons of Marin (1-3) and the Mill Valley Merchants (1-4). Keith Frazer, leading the league in strikeouts, will pitch for Mill Valley against the Dons' Steve Miller. The game is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at Mill Valley.

The standings:

	W	L	Pct.	GB
San Anselmo	4	0	1.000	—
Billings-Hutchison	4	1	.800	½
Presidio	3	1	.750	1
Novato	3	1	.750	1
Ongaro Plumbers	2	3	.400	2½

Angels To Sign Piersall Today

BOSTON (AP)—Outfielder Jimmy Piersall, released by the nosediving New York Mets, was expected to sign with the Los Angeles Angels of the American League as a free agent today.

A source close to the Angels said no trouble was anticipated with Piersall over contract terms.

The Associated Press learned last night that the colorful 33-year-old fly chaser was going to the Angels. But because of the fact the waivers didn't run out on Jim until noon today neither Piersall nor Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney was free to announce the move.

Yank Team Jelling, Rolls Over Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — "I just wish we'd had a warm-up meet before we went to Moscow. This team is really jelling now," Payton Jordan, coach of the touring U. S. track and field team, said today.

The American men, rebounding from the narrowest victory in history against the Russians last weekend, rolled it up on the Poles in the opener of the two-day meet yesterday, 68-36.

John Pennel of Miami, Fla., capped the performance in darkness with a world record leap in the pole vault.

Pennel leaped an officially announced 5.10 meters, or 16 feet, 8¾ inches. Actually, he cleared the bar at 5.105 meters, or 16-9, but the metric measurement was rounded off to 5.10.

An application will be made for a record at that height.

The reason for all this centimeter-splitting was that Pennel set the present standard himself on July 13 in London with a leap that was announced there as 16-8¾. But the metric equivalent was listed as 5.098.

Even Pennel didn't know the exact metric mark he made in London.

"They announced it only in feet and inches," he said.

The vaulter tried to make the whole thing academic by going for 17 feet but darkness fell on ultra-modern Tenth Anniversary Stadium, which is equipped with almost everything but lights.

Two automobiles were rushed in from the parking lot to cast their lights on the scene and thousands of Poles made torches of rolled up newspapers. In this eerie setting, Pennel tried at 17 feet but couldn't make it.

Pennel's performance capped a day when everything went right for the Americans.

In all the Americans took nine victories in 10 events. The other 10 events come off today.

The American gals, humiliated in Moscow, snapped back too, won two of five events and trailed only 27-24 at the end of the first day.

Heavies On TV Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tall Ernie Terrell, Chicago's rapidly improving heavyweight contender, seeks his eighth straight victory tonight in a nationally-televised (ABC, 7 o'clock) fight with veteran Zora Folley at Madison Square Garden.

In his latest bout April 13, the six-foot-seven Terrell outpointed rugged Cleveland Williams of Houston, Tex., whom champion Sonny Liston described as "the toughest man I ever fought," although Sonny stopped Williams twice.

Tonight eighth-ranked Terrell engages seventh-rated Folley of Chandler, Ariz., who also fought Liston—and also was knocked out by savage Sonny.

Terrell, 24, is gunning for a title fight with Liston because he knows he has the long-jabbing and tight tying-up style that Liston abhors.

SAYS LISTON

At Las Vegas, Nev., last week, Liston said:

"You can have that Terrell. I don't want him. I don't like his style. He won't fight yuh! He pecks away with those long arms; then grabs yuh and ties yuh up in clinches. All he does is make yuh look bad."

No, Sonny never fought Ernie; but he has seen Terrell in action three times.

Despite 31-year-old Folley's 11-year experience and slightly higher rating, betting is at even money for tonight's bout. It's "6-5 and pick 'em."

Both Zora and Ernie are fair punchers who knocked out about half their opponents. Folley registered 35 kayoes while winning 63 of his 72 starts. He had three draws and was stopped five times.

Top Stars Enter S.R. Net Tourney

The second junior tennis tournament in Marin, newly-sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Assn. will begin Monday at the Rafael Racquet Club in San Rafael and continue through Friday.

Last week the Belvedere Junior Tennis Tournament survived its birth pangs in excellent shape. The Mill Valley Junior Tennis Tournament, Marin's first, has been offering stiff competition for Bay Area youngsters for many years.

Tournament Director Hal Wagner, tennis professional and manager of the Rafael Racquet Club, says that 145 entries had been received when the deadline was reached this week. Forty doubles teams have entered, and they will begin firing Wednesday in six divisions: Boys and girls 18 and under, 16 and under, and 14 and under.

Singles competition will commence Monday in these divisions and also girls and boys 12 and under divisions.

Some of the top junior players in the Bay Area have entered the tourney, including Cecilia Martinez of San Francisco, winner of the girls 18 and 16 singles titles at Belvedere. The four Klyce brothers of San Rafael—Harvey, Ron, Rob and Tom—will compete along with Charles and Tom Deardorff of Burlingame and the Woolfson brothers of Hayward. Cathy, Candy and Larry Douglas of Santa Rosa also have entered.

The club will host a buffet supper in the clubhouse Monday evening after the completion of the opening matches.

ULTIMATE GOAL—This is the way members of the Episcopal Church of Redeemer hope their 3½ acres at 121 Knight Drive, Glenwood, will be developed. Construction of the first building (lower right) has already started. It will first be a chapel and later be converted to classrooms when the main sanctuary (left center) is built. Small building (right center) will be a wayside chapel.

Church School In Glenwood

A parochial school for the Glenwood area is included in the building plans for the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer which were implemented a week ago.

Construction of a 4,000-square-foot chapel on the church's 3½-acre property at 121 Knight Drive is underway, and completion is expected in November. The chapel will later convert to a classroom building after a main sanctuary is built farther east on the property.

The church, organized three years ago, purchased the McNear mansion and surrounding land. Services will continue to be held in the historic home until the chapel is finished.

The home will serve as a Sunday school and a vicarage for Rev. Richard D. Beaumont. Eventual development, however, requires razing the mansion.

Initial construction, now underway, will cost about $45,000. Architects for it and other builldings are Bay Area Associates.. Contractor is Ron Antonioli of Loch Lomond with George Litchfield of San Rafael as general foreman.

The buildings will be of brick and redwood with shake roofs.

Church officials could not give any schedule of development for the building program. The parochial school, however, was listed as a "long range" project.

Organizing vicar was Rev. S. R. Hammond, who retired a year ago after 51 years in the ministry. He did much of the work in developing plans.

Also included in the plans is a wayside chapel close to Knight Drive. There will be a large parking lot next to the main sanctuary, and an access road will lead all the way around the property.

The McNear home was built in 1909. The oak and redwood home stands above a basement that has walls five feet thick. The excavation for the basement was filled with water during the first year of construction to test the drainage.

The roof of slate shingles imported from Germany was an outstanding feature at the time of construction, there being no other "fireproof" roofing offered in the United States at that time.

The lumber was cured over a three-year period. Brickwork was done by Italian and Portuguese artisans.

St. James Had Hard Time Being Disciple

'Son Of Thunder' Had Temperament Far From Saintly

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The word "saint" conjures up up in most minds the image of a gentle, pious, unselfish person to whom goodness comes as naturally as breathing.

But the church calendar contains the names of many saints who just don't fit that stereotype.

For example, Thursday was the feast day of St. James the Great.

The New Testament has quite a lot to say about this fellow. And it depicts him as a very ordinary human being, with a tendency to be vain, ambitious and hot-tempered.

He was the son of a fisherman named Zebedee, who lived in the town of Capernaum, and operated a fleet of fishing boats on the Sea of Galillee.

James had a brother named John and two close friends named Simon and Andrew, who worked with him in the fishing business.

The monotony of their lives was broken one day by the arrival in Capernaum of a young itinerant preacher named Jesus of Nazareth. When Jesus talked about God, he sounded like he was speaking from first-hand information, rather than quoting out of a book. He was the most alive and compelling person who had ever come to Capernaum, and the four young fishermen were greatly attracted to him.

One day, Jesus walked down to the shore where the four fishermen were at work.

"Follow me," he said, "and I will make you become fishers of men."

James and his three friends didn't hesitate. They didn't tell Jesus they'd need a little time to wind up their business. They just dropped their nets and followed him.

They were the first of the 12 apostles. And they were destined to remain Jesus' closets friends and confidantes.

Jesus seems to have had a particular affection for Simon, whom he re-named Peter, and for the two brothers, James and John. The new testament records that he chose Peter, James and John to accompany him on several special occasions, including the last night in the Garden of Gethsemane, when he waited for his arrest and crucifixion.

Once, when the people of a Samaritan village gave Jesus a discourteous reception, James lost his temper and wanted to call down fire from heaven to wipe out the whole village.

Jesus rebuked James severely for this proposal, and reminded him that "the son of man came not to destroy men's lives but to save them."

Later, to rub in the lesson with a little pointed humor, Jesus gave James a nickname: "Son of Thunder."

It took James a long time to understand what it meant to be a disciple of Christ. Perhaps he didn't really comprehend until he had the awesome experience of being a witness to the resurrection.

Future Jewish Works May Reclaim Jesus As 'Rabbi'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

History's most influential Jew, Jesus, traditionally has been ignored in the annals of Judaism, but a noted Jewish scholar predicts future works will include reference to the ancient Galilean.

Not as divinity become man, as Christians regard him, but as a wise and inspiring teacher.

Dr. Harry A. Wolfson, professor of Hebrew literature and philosophy emeritus at Harvard University, says fuller restoration of Jewish literary treasures doubtlessly "will include among them the sermons and parables of Jesus."

He adds that "it is not as a returning hero that Jesus will be restored," and not as a beatified saint nor as an "individual to be worshiped and exalted above others," but as one of the "wise, of blessed memory, who express the national genius of the people."

Dr. Wolfson, makes his forecast in a final, memorial issue of "The Monorah Journal," published in honor of its late editor, Henry Hurwitz.

"The Jewish reclamation of Jesus will not be brought about by efforts of evangelical piety on the part of some Jews, or by a sentimental yearning for what we haven't got," he says.

"It will come about as a result of a wider and more comprehensive conception of the scope of Jewish learning and Jewish literature and of a general restoration of our lost literary treasures."

Noting that Jesus has been "better known among non-Jews than among Jews" because of historical circumstances, Dr. Wolfson says Judaism nonetheless has absorbed much Christian influence.

"A century of infiltration of Christian ideas into our life through all the agencies of education has robbed many of us of our essential Jewish character," he says.

"In everything that guides our life and determines our views thereof, we have become Christianized, for we have somehow accepted Christ if not in the theological sense of a Savior at least in the historical sense of a civilizer."

As for the traditional Jewish position on Jesus, Dr. Wolfson says "Jesus is not a rejected prophet; at best he is a rejected sage.

"The Jews did not put a limit to the books of the Bible in order to keep Jesus out; Jesus simply happened to come at a time when that body of literature, in the opinion of the authorities of the time, was practically closed."

As for incorporation of Jesus' teachings into Jewish lore, Dr. Wolfson says:

"The person of Jesus as conceived in the manner of the various forms of Christology could never find a place in Judaism, for it is altogether foreign to its fundamental principles. As the promised Messiah, he simply did not meet the conditions."

But there is a place for him as a great rabbi, Dr. Wolfson says. He foresees stories of Jesus being included in Jewish Haggadah-type narrations, for reading and telling, with one perhaps going like this:

"Come and see, how great is the power of Israel. Once there was a child in Galilee. He was taken captive and carried off into the great city of Rome. There they made a God of him; but some say they made of him only a son of God, and others say only a prophet of God.

"They built temples and churches to his name in every land, and each nation worshipped him according to its tongue, according to its manner, and according to its custom. But the mind of the child was not at rest until he returned to Galilee and saw his name inscribed in an ancient tome among the names of his castigated pharisees . . ."

This, says Dr. Wolfson, "is how the Jews will reclaim Jesus."

Bells Will Ring In Hub Church

The Marin Handbell Ringers of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo will sponsor a handbell seminar on Aug. 7 in connection with the apperance of the Fink Family Handbell Ringers.

Starting at 1 p. m. the seminar will be held at the church, and the Fink Family of Seattle, Wash., will present a concert at the church at 8 p. m.

According to Wilbur F. Russell, minister of music at the church, the seminar will consist of workshop sessions on techniques, arranging a repertoire and use of handbells in services.

On display will be repertoire from many of the well known music companies as well as bells only recently put on the market by Schulmerich Carillons of Sellersville, Pa.

Further information may be obtained by writing Russell, c/o Marin Handbell Ringers, First Presbyterian Church, 72 Kensington Road, San Anselmo.

Scrap Of Marble Proves Early Nazareth Existed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Was Jesus from Nazareth? Indeed, was there a Nazareth in his time, or was it invented to satisfy pilgrims to the place where Jesus lived?

A workman's accidental discovery of a fragment of a Hebrew inscription on marble may help answer these questions. The fragment is being studied by the Israel Department of Antiquities of Hebrew University.

Shalom Attiah noticed the chunk of marble in his wheelbarrow at an excavation site at Caesarea, Israel, on the Mediterranean Coast.

Dr. Jerry Vardaman, archaeology professor at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, who had charge of the digging, recalled that workmen had been told to be watchful because some searchers were growing disheartened and careless near the end of the season.

The seminary has a copy of the fragment, which is said to add to evidence that Nazareth did exist in the time of Jesus. The inscription on the marble was part of a list of Jewish priestly families and the towns where they lived in Galilee.

Authorities place the fragment in the period of the late second to the fourth century, A.D. Dr. Vardaman said the inscription contains the earliest known Hebrew references to Nazareth.

Many scholars have contended that Jesus lived in Choraizin or Capernaum. The name "Nazarene" as applied to Jesus sometimes is said to refer to a pre-Christian religious group.

Skepticism on the subject was noted in the Encyclopedia biblica:

"It is very doubtful whether the beautiful mountain village of Nazareth itself was really the dwelling place of Jesus. No such town as Nazareth is mentioned in the Old Testament, in Josephus, or in the Talmud."

★ SHAMROCK DODGE ★

The dealer who respects your budget problems — and helps you buy a car

WE WANT AND NEED YOUR BUSINESS, BUT, WE DON'T WANT YOU TO SPEND MORE THAN YOU CAN AFFORD.

So you name the payments that fit your budget and, if we have any profit at all left over,

YOU'LL DRIVE HOME IN A NEW CAR OR TRUCK

You can take immediate delivery for just

★ $99 DOWN ★

BECAUSE YOUR CREDIT— LOCAL OR OUT OF TOWN

can be cleared on the spot

WE DO NOT CLAIM TO SELL AT A LOSS, BECAUSE YOU KNOW AND WE KNOW THAT WE MUST MAKE A PROFIT IN ORDER TO STAY IN BUSINESS—BUT THE SIMPLE TRUTH IS THAT WE ARE CONTENT with ⅓ the profit that some dealers demand

SO NO MATTER WHO HAS SAID NO TO YOUR DEAL,

see us—maybe we can help you

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Patient May Be Tired And Sleepy, But Doesn't Have To Be Narcolepsy

VAN DELLEN

The narcolepsy victim has an uncontrolable desire to sleep while reading, driving a car, or watching TV. A brief nap alleviates the feeling temporarily but shortly thereafter he drifts into drowsiness and another deep sleep. The condition is an obvious handicap and may be dangerous when the need comes on while driving a car or if the victim's work involves machinery.

Not everyone who always is tired has narcolepsy. A lazy thyroid gland leads to symptoms that are easily mistaken for narcolepsy, and vice versa. The glandular disorder is more likely to produce fatigue than drowsiness. In addition, tests show a low metabolism and a low protein bound iodine level in the blood.

IN CONTRAST, there are no technical methods to diagnose narcolepsy. The physician suspects the disorder from the history of the patient's complaints and his response to drugs such as the amphetamines, which lead to improvement in more than 85 per cent of all narcolepsy victims.

The abnormality usually develops during adolescence or young adult life. Most of the day is spent in a state halfway between alertness and sleep. Unless treated, narcolepsy persists throughout life and handicaps the working man because he is tired, wornout, and subject to abrupt blackouts.

OTHER SLEEP disorders may coexist. Some have cataplexy, a puzzling condition in which the muscles become weak or temporarily paralyzed if the emotions are aroused as in a hearty laugh, surprise, or anger.

Others also develop sleep paralysis, a phenomenon that many normal persons experience at some period of life. This is the peculiar sensation of not being able to move when dozing off or awakening from a nap. The person becomes weak and feels completely paralyzed for a few moments between sleeping and waking.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

DEPRESSION AFTER OPERATION

B. D. writes: Are crying spells, nervousness, and headaches to be expected after a hysterectomy?

REPLY

No. This woman is in a depression and in need of psychiatric care. Stress, anxiety, and insecurity are more likely origins, though these symptoms may be precipitated by the operation. Most women who undergo a hysterectomy do so without such an aftermath.

CHEST FLUID

R. S. writes: Can fluid on the chest (as shown by X-ray) be dissolved by medicine?

REPLY

The answer depends upon the cause. If the fluid is pus, surgical drainage will be necessary. On the other hand, diuretic pills will eliminate congestion resulting from dropsy, and the anti-tuberculosis tablets will help when tuberculosis is responsible.

PULSE INCREASE

R. L. writes: I have a fast pulse. Will taking a reducing pill make my heart beat increase?

REPLY

It may, especially if the reducing pill contains one of the amphetamines.

MAY NEED THYROID

Mrs. J. R. writes: Is the body lacking something when the nails become brittle, the skin scaly, and the hair thin?

REPLY

A thyroid deficiency is a good possibility.

IODINE CONTAINING FOODS

J. D. writes: Will eating foods rich in iodine keep the hair from getting gray?

REPLY

No, but it will help keep your neck from enlarging because of goiter.

Today's Health Hint — Most accidents to the elderly occur because they cannot break the habit of hurrying.

$364 In Clothes Stolen From Car

A cashier at Sabella's Restaurant, Mill Valley, told sheriff's officers Thursday $364 worth of clothes had been stolen from her locked car parked outside the restaurant.

Theresa S. Nelson, 94 Cazneau Avenue, Sausalito, said the contents of the glove compartment, including an insurance policy, had also been taken.

Grand Jury Report

The Marin County Grand Jury Thursday night restricted its discussion to questions of routine procedures to be used by the group throughout this year, foreman Edwin A. Wells reported today.

St. Raphael's Wins Plaudits From Magazine

The Unity Octave observed by St. Raphael's Church in January was praised editorially in the August issue of the "Sacred Heart Messenger," a Jesuit edited monthly magazine published in New York.

The magazine said the ecumenical movement has resulted in an improved spirit of charity and it cites the success of St. Raphael's program attended by 6,000 Catholics and Protestants.

The magazine also contains a lead review in the book review section by Paul Brindel, Novato literary critic.

Thrown From Cycle

Sausalito police reported that Raymond Joseph Muller of 1915 Bridgeway received "minor scrapes and cuts" at 12:52 a.m. yesterday when the motorcycle on which he was riding went out of control, slid and threw him onto the street at Bridgeway and Easterby Street.

Church School First Round Ends In Court

The first round of oral arguments in the attempt in court by three Belvedere men to stop construction of a church school ended yesterday with a motion by the City of Belvedere that the case be thrown out of court.

Marin Superior Court Judge N. Charles Brusatori gave the three men, Kenneth G. Wells, Harvey D. La Flamme and Eimer Frass, 15 days for attorneys to file briefs on the move by the city, and then gave the city and attorneys for the St. Stephen's Church 10 days to answer.

At that time he could either rule within 90 days or ask more oral arguments. If the city's motion is turned down, the case would then have to go to trial.

The three claim that the church school is prohibited from the area by the city zoning ordinance.

Lecture, Films On Bible Lands Set In Fairfax

Dr. Bernard Brandstater, 34, associate professor of anesthesiology at the American University of Beirut, will speak at 8:30 p. m. today at the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, Fairfax on "Highlights of Bible Lands."

Dr. Brandstater and his family, staying temporarily in Corte Madera before returning to Lebanon in October, have pursued an interest in archeology and have taken their cameras to many places of Biblical interest in Jordan, Syria, Egypt, Turkey and Lebanon.

Dr. Brandstater, a native of Australia, has attended King Saud of Arabia and three of his wives, finding them "beautiful and vivacious."

Unpaid Wages Are Collected

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Unpaid wages totaling $3,612,813 were collected for California workers in the year ending June 30, Sigmund Ayrwitz, state labor commissioner, said yesterday.

This beat last year's record collection by $568,000.

Arywitz said the collections were made by the division of labor law enforcement, Department of Industrial Relations, which handled 56,041 complaints and controversies involving violation of California labor laws.

Choir To Sing At Park Camp Fire Program

The Chancel Choir of the San Geronimo Community Presbyterian Church will sing at the camp fire circle in Samuel P. Taylor State Park at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

The concert, under the auspices of the Marin County Council of Churches, will feature works of Mozart, Hayden, Mendelssohn, Christiansen and others. Robert Lea will direct.

TRYING TO BEAT HEAT

$25,252,088 Collected In Property Tax

A total of $25,252,088 was collected in property taxes in Marin County as of the close of the 1962-63 fiscal year, tax collector Stanley J. Fontez announced yesterday.

The collection represents all but 2.24 per cent of a total tax charge of $25,784,542. Unpaid taxes for the previous fiscal year were 1.99 per cent of the total charge, but Fontex said the apparently lower figure for 1961-62 is misleading.

Improved calculations, due to expanded use of data processing, resulted in a "more accurate figure for the total charge," Fontex said. "In previous years we have relied on on estimated total charge because there ar several thousand changes in the tax roll during the year."

Property on which taxes were unpaid as of June 30 will be listed with the state and will be subject to auction for delinquent taxes in five years, Fontez said.

Of the total amount collected, $44,500 will be returned to taxpayers who paid twice. Duplicate payment often occurs, Fontez said, because property changes hands or taxes are paid by both an owner and his agent.

Mill Valley Actor In Scooter Crash

A Mill Valley actor, William Graham, 32, of 171 Ethel Avenue, suffered cuts on the arm about 1:35 p.m. Thursday when his motor scooter wobbled and then threw him to the pavement on Golden Gate Bridge.

The accident happened about 150 feet north of the South Tower as Graham was driving north, reported California Highway Patrolman I. D. Jump.

'Art For Visitors' Features Marinites

The "Art for Visitors" show now at the San Francisco Art Institute features works by seven Marin County artists.

The show, continuing until Aug. 30, includes works by Doris (Meyer) Chatham of Kentfield, Frank Milner of Tiburon, Doris Morrison of Ross and William Morehouse, Henry Rasmusen, Jerry Walter and William Wiley, all of Mill Valley.

Actress Free On Bail

VAN NUYS (AP) — Actress Marie McDonald was free on $525 bail today after state narcotics agents arrested her and accused her of forging prescriptions for a pain-killing drug.

Miss McDonald, 40, was arraigned yesterday in municipal court on charges of forgery of prescriptions. She pleaded guilty. Sentencing was set for Aug. 23.

San Marin Homes Nearing Completion

San Marin, the new 2,000-acre planned community under development northwest of Novato, will receive its first residents in September, it was announced today by E. R. Miller, project manager.

First homes will be available in five floor plans with 16 different exterior stylings in traditional, contemporary, Pacifica, provincial and California ranch house designs. Four model homes will be available for public inspection when San Marin opens officially on Aug. 10.

The subdivision, being developed by Sunset International Petroleum Corp. and National General Corp. is adjacent to Novato Boulevard. By September a new one-quarter mile road is expected to be completed, linking it to Highway 101.

A recreational facility to be completed next summer will include swimming pools, tennis and handball courts and a recreation center building. A shopping center, schools and churches are also planned.

Model homes to be opened for inspection will be of the three-bedroom, two-bath type, with exteriors varying from wood siding to stone and concrete block.

The first unit of the development will contain 94 buildings, with 65 planned for September occupancy, Miller said.

Group To Aid State Lottery

SACRAMENTO (AP) — "High class people" are being sought for a campaign to win voter approval for a state lottery, Assemblyman Alan Pattee (R-Salinas) said yesterday.

Pattee, just back from a meeting of lottery backers in Los Angeles last night, said the group decided to form a non-profit corporation to run the campaign to place the measure on the November 1964 ballot.

"Then we must make a drive for funds," he said. "I feel it will cost $225,000."

Vacation Bible School Set In Corte Madera

Vacation Bible School at Marin Lutheran Church, Corte Madera, will begin at 9 a. m. Monday and continue until 11:45 a. m. each day for two weeks. Mrs. Dorothy Walters of Mill Valley is director of the school.

The course of study is "Teach Us to Pray." Classes will be held for children entering Kindergarten this fall up to and including those entering the freshman year in high school.

Soldier Is Following Father's Foot Steps

Pvt. Walter R. Jorgenson Jr. of 837 Del Ganado Road, San Rafael, is home on leave en route to assignment in Korea where his father once served. He qualified as a cryptographer after training at the Army Signal Communications School at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

His father, Lt. Col. Walter R. Jorgenson (ret.) was stationed in Korea in 1952-53.

Art, Puppets Due Display Wednesday

Art and fashion will be on display and puppets will play for persons attending the Ross Summer Festival at 7:15 p.m., Wednesday in the inner courtyard at Ross School.

The festival is designed to show what children do who are enrolled in the Ross summer program, Mrs. Charles F. Doyle, program director, explained.

Handmade puppets will star in "Peter and the Wolf" and "Repunzel." Red Cross swimming and junior lifesaving badges will be presented by Mrs. Ernest Egenberger, swimming instructor.

In addition there will be ballet by students of Elizabeth Nottingham Palmer. Items on display will include examples from the writing class, paintings, dresses and a dune buggy, built in the auto shop class.

Sausalitan Injured In Fall Down Stairs

Ignatius G. Miano of Sausalito was treated for scrapes and bruises of his left arm and leg at Marin General Hospital Thursday after he was reported to have fallen on the Excelsior Lane concrete stairs to the sidewalk on Bridgeway. Police said the fall was at 5:15 p.m.

Miano lives at the Del Monte Hotel on Bridgeway bordering the stairs.

Shorty Powers Out

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's manned spacecraft center has confirmed that Col. John (Shorty) Powers, "Voice of the Mercury astronauts," will be assigned to new duties.

Gilruth said Powers, public affairs officer for the spacecraft center, will be given new duties within the space program. The new assignment "will be announced as soon as we can determine in what way he can best serve NASA," Gilruth said.

There have been frequent rumors that Powers was to be fired from his job.

Marin's Pattern Of Ridges And Valleys

Looking south from over the Terra Linda interchange on Highway 101, the pattern of ridges and valleys in Marin County running in a northwest-southeast direction becomes readily apparent.

In the valleys lie the business and industrial sections of Marin's cities and unincorporated areas along with the housing tracts, discernable from the air by their planned layouts fitted to the curves of the hillsides. In the foreground are, from the left, Santa Venetia, Los Ranchitos and Terra Linda.

Land being excavated just to the right of the interchange is the site for Northgate Shopping Center. The walls of the Emporium are rising above the ground. Gallinas Creek flows out to the bay past the 101 Drive-In Movies. Next to South Fork is the Civic Center Lagoon and above that, the Frank Lloyd Wright designed administration building.

At the right edge of the picture, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard begins in San Anselmo and leads through Ross and Kentfield to the valley holding Corte Madera, Larkspur and Greenbrae. Between that valley and Terra Linda, lies densly populated San Rafael. Shooting off from the tip of Point San Quentin is the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge.

Angel Island lies off the tip of the Tiburon Peninsula whose most prominant off-shoot is Belvedere. To the right, obscured by the foothills of Mount Tamalpais, is Mill Valley.

Clouds partially obscure the Golden Gate Bridge near which the City of Sausalito lies. Further on down the peninsula, the clouds give way to a concentrated bank of fog which is just beginning to move in over the land. But Marin, at least for the time being, remains in the sunshine. Clem Likes The Role Of Comedian

See Page M-2

THIS IS CLEM, or if you want his full name, Greenes' Clement Lafayette C.D. As you can tell without difficulty from those long ears and the mournful expression, he's a basset hound.

Clem belongs to Jack and Mary Ellen Greene of Mill Valley and he's a member of a breed which has zoomed upwards in popularity in recent years. This and the cover photo at right, also of Clem, were taken by Bill Rogers.

Just Natural-Born Clowns

By DON KEOWN

Whether that story about George Washington chopping down the cherry tree is myth or fact remains a subject of some argument.

But, say members of the Northern California Basset Hound Club, there is no dispute as to the authenticity of still another story about the Father of Our Country.

THE FIRST President was also his country's first owner of a basset hound.

The dog was a present from his friend and wartime compatriot, the Marquis de Lafayette, sometime after the close of the American Revolution, and became a pampered pet and favorite hunting companion.

However, it took a television show nearly two centuries later to really accomplish what the example of George Washington failed to do—to popularize the basset hound breed in America.

FLOPPY-EARED, sad-faced Cleo frequently stole the show from star Jackie Cooper in "The People's Choice" comedy series, first seen in the mid 1950s and still being shown frequently on a repeat basis. And suddenly dog-lovers across the country were switching to the bassets.

The records show that in 1930 there were only 65 basset hound registrations in this entire country, and the breed stood 50th in the popularity scale.

In 1962, the registration total had soared to 9,978 and the bassets rated 11th in popularity among the breeds.

JACK AND Mary Ellen Greene, owners of the Tamalpais Pet & Garden Center in Mill Valley and among the half dozen or so Marin members of the Northern California Basset Hound Club, say there is no question but what it was Cleo who sold the American public on the bassets.

Certainly, it was also the canine TV star who convinced the Greenes that they wanted one of the bassets for themselves.

"We had always had toy fox terriers before," Mrs. Greene says, "but when we went into the pet store business, we felt that they were too nervous for such an establishment. Then we saw Cleo on television and decided that was just the kind of dog we needed.

"WE BEGAN saving our dimes in a ceramic bank shaped like a basset hound. And then in December of 1962 we bought a basset, our Christmas present that year to each other."

"That basset" was Greenes' Clement Lafayette C.D., better known as just plain Clem.

When acquired by the Greenes, Clem was a nine-weeks-old youngster, the son of a Sausalito basset, and weighed 10 pounds. Now he weighs 60 pounds. And he recently became the father of a litter of five puppies of his own.

HE HAS proven to be the perfect pet around the house and at the store.

Given the freedom of the pet and garden store at 167 Throckmorton Avenue, Clem has learned to take parakeets, chipmunks, other dogs and even cats in his waddling stride. Customers get a friendly greeting from the basset, who quite obviously considers himself a member of the sales staff.

At home, the Greenes say, Clem has demonstrated all the endearing qualities which have come to be associated with the bassets.

"WITH THEIR wonderful dispositions, the bassets are ideal family dogs. They simply fit into any family pattern," Mrs. Greene says.

But their most winning attribute is their inclination for playing the role of clown.

"They are natural comics and hams," Mrs. Greene says. "They simply delight in making people laugh, and there's never a dull moment with a basset hound around."

Furthermore, she adds, the basset requires only minimum attention and care, being a rugged individual who can take care of himself.

IN THE SHOW ring, Clem has won his Obedience Degree. The Greenes have hopes he will develop into a champion.

"But that is of no earth-shaking importance to us," Mrs. Greene stresses. "We love him, champion or no champion."

An ability of the basset hound that is not so generally known is his hunting prowess.

The breed originated in France at St. Hubert's Monastery and was known as St. Hubert's hound in the 16th century.

IT WAS NOT until the late 1800s that the dogs were imported to this country in any appreciable numbers. Then they were used primarily as field dogs for hunting—especially rabbits—and were frequently referred to as rabbit hounds. They also won themselves a reputation with pheasant hunters.

Their enthusiasts say they are "second only to the bloodhound for scenting ability."

And they have been called "the middle-aged man's hunting dog" because their short, heavy legs and resulting slow gait will not permit them to run away from their masters.

But satisfactory though he is as a hunting dog, in the show ring, as a children's pet, and even as a watchdog, it is in his primary role of comedian and entertainer that the basset hound is happiest.

MARINITES will have an opportunity to enjoy those antics when the Northern California Basset Hound Club stages its annual Fun Picnic tomorrow at Boyle Park in Mill Valley. Judging will start at 11:30 a.m. And there will be no serious show ring competition.

Instead the dogs will be vying for such honors as the fastest hound, the biggest feet, and goofiest costume and funniest hat, etc.

All bassets, whether their owners be members of the club or not, are eligible to compete.

Clem will be there. And so will a lot of his friends.

EVEN THE CHAMPIONS among the basset hounds aren't too proud to play the role of clown. In fact, they love it. At top is Northern California Basset Hound Club member Mrs. Allen Barton with her Champion Tannenbaum's Fantastic. In lower photo is Champion Tannenbaum's Ajax, also belonging to the Allen Bartons of Fresno. Good-natured basset hounds from throughout California will turn comedians when the basset hound club holds its annual Fun Picnic tomorrow in Mill Valley's Boyle Park. The dogs enjoy it as much as their owners.

INFORMATION RECEPTIONIST Noreen Tate, behind the counter, provides tourist Mrs. Ronald Brocksoff of New York, her daughter Valerie and her nephew Mike Barra of South San Francisco with details concerning Marin County attractions that await them across the Golden Gate Bridge. The scene is the Visitors Information Bureau operated jointly by the Redwood Empire Assn. and the San Francisco Convention & Visitors Bureau at 476 Post Street just off San Francisco's Union Square. In the background can be seen the distinctive redwood screen embellished by a huge aluminum-and-copper sun designed by Ernest Born, FAIA. (Independent-Journal photo)

They Tell The Traveler About Marin

Those tourists who cross the Golden Gate Bridge by the hundreds these summer days to view Marin's scenery and enjoy its climate don't just happen to drop in on us.

Somewhere they've heard about Marvelous Marin—its Muir Woods, its new Civic Center, its Mission Rafael Arcangel, its seaside cities, its fine restaurants, its many other attractions.

And quite often these days the place where they got that word was San Francisco's sleek "Travel Row" just off Union Square, where Marin County now has an effective promotion and sales office.

OFFICIALLY titled the Visitors Information Center of the Redwood Empire Assn., it has, since it opened June 3, exposed hundreds of travelers from virtually every state in the Union and from many foreign countries to Marin's scenic, cultural and recreational assets.

Sharing quarters at 476 Post Street with the REA's executive offices, managed by Carney J. Campion, a Marinite living at 33 Califia Court, Terra Linda, the Visitors Information Center is staffed by attractive girl receptionists.

And, despite the premium downtown office space, the office costs Marin County not an extra cent.

It is a new service of the REA underwritten by Marin County's regular annual subscription of $6,650 to the association, plus dues from 60 travel-and-development-oriented REA member firms and organizations in this county.

NO EXTRA levy was asked when the new service was initiated. Says Paul R. Leahy, Marin County chairman of the Redwood Empire Assn.: "We did it on our old shoestring, but you'd never know it to see it."

The showcase, visitor-tempting information center is actually a joint REA-San Francisco Convention & Visitors Bureau venture. It is there that the tourist goes to get the lowdown on how to find Fisherman's Wharf (or Tiburon), what to wear at Golden Gate Park (or Stinson Beach) or how much it costs to stay in a Nob Hill hotel (or a Novato motel).

If the Visitors Information Bureau is new, the Redwood Empire Assn. itself is far from that. For two generations, or since 1925 to be exact, the REA has been dispensing answers to travel questions dealing with an area from San Francisco north to Grants Pass.

BUT THE REA has been operating from upstairs suites in the San Francisco financial district. Few visitors actually found their way to the upstairs offices. Most of the queries came and the replies went out via the mails as the REA continued to gain stature as the best single source of travel information for Northern California.

"We knew we ought to have something competitive with the airlines and foreign travel bureaus," says Campion. "But with high downtown rents, we just couldn't afford it."

Nearly a year ago, looking to the expiration of REA's financial district lease this summer, Campion and his staff tackled in earnest the problem of finding a new home. And about this time, the San Francisco Convention & Visitors Bureau entered the picture.

REORGANIZED to give added emphasis to the "Visitors" part of its name, that bureau's chiefs were seeking downtown "display" space where they could persuade some of San Francisco's two million tourists to stay longer and sample further its sights and delights.

Tourism is San Francisco's biggest industry now, with almost 112 million dollars in income attributed to it. Yet tourists stay fewer days in San Francisco than they do in Los Angeles and many other cities. If San Francisco only had a better way to service visitors, surely some of them would stay longer . . .

Like a magnet, the mutual problem drew REA and the S. F. bureau into joint exploration of a mutual solution. After some weeks of discussions, an agreement in principle was reached: A partnership to operate the Visitors Information Center.

EARLIEST AND most essential part of the agreement was the recognition that San Francisco and the Redwood Empire counties to its north are not really competing for tourist dollars—they are allied in pursuit of them. San Francisco is one of America's smallest metropolitan areas, and it needs the neighboring attractions like Muir Woods, the wine country, Pt. Reyes, et al, to give a tourist the change-of-pace he covets. Conversely, Marin and her neighbors to the north need San Francisco as a major attraction to bring visitors West in the first place.

So the partnership was born.

A search for a good location started, and an architect-designer was retained to make the new center a credit to San Francisco, Marin and the other seven Redwood Empire counties.

ERNEST BORN, FAIA, was the architect.

The California Redwood Assn., representing major lumber mills, offered to contribute all the redwood needed for decoration and design. Using this appropriate and distinctive material, Born set to work.

"I wanted to express the rich heritage of our area through use of redwood," says Born, a member of the San Francisco Art Commission under two mayors.

Keynote for the center is provided by an 18-foot redwood screen, built of unfinished clear-grain wood in random widths from one-by-two-inch studding to two-by-12-inch planks. Born says

"SHOULD A JACKET LINING CHANGE COLOR IN DRYCLEANING?"

No, it should not. However, it will if the suede of the jacket has not been tanned properly. In the instance of your suede jacket no matter what method of drycleaning was used, the color of the suede would have bled into the lining. It was particularly noticeable in your jacket because the lining was white. The contrast made a most fashionable and attractive jacket combination, but due to improper tanning, the color in the suede was certain to bleed.

The NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF DRYCLEANING notes that this has been an increasing complaint in suede jackets sent to their laboratories, too. In most instances, the suedes were tanned in foreign countries where they, apparently, are not as careful in their choice of dyes.

Some time ago we had problem fabrics which were imported. We mention, again, that the standards of manufacture in this country appear to be superior to those in foreign countries. Perhaps this is because the customer is prompt to complain and obtain redress from the manufacturer if a fabric is faulty. By and large you are safer with American-made fabrics. Consider that when you make purchases.

Now that we have lived with the revolutionary new Revere Tape Cartridge system for four months, we are more impressed than ever. In brief, the Revere Tape Cartridge system does everything that a record changer does except that it uses music on tape cartridges instead of on records.

Although we introduced this newest in tape recorders several months ago, there are many who haven't heard about the outstanding features offered by the Revere. The unit is not only a stereo tape player but it is also a stereo tape recorder. The sensational feature of the Revere is that you can stack as many as twenty prerecorded tape cartridges on the unit, push one button and, from then on, sit back and relax to as much as fifteen hours of stereo music.

The tape cartridges are completely self-encased in a plastic container three and one-half inches square. Each tape cartridge can supply as much as forty-five minutes of stereo music. Already many of your favorite selections are available from such companies as Columbia Records and Command. Blank cartridges are also available for making your own stereo tape recordings.

The Revere Tape Recorder automatically threads the tape, plays the entire cartridge then automatically rewinds the tape back into its cartridge, rejects the cartridge and repeats the entire cycle with the next cartridge on the stack. This continues until all the stack has been played. The Revere also has many other features, such as fast forward, fast rewind and repeat of a cartridge. The recorder weighs only thirty-two pounds and is completely portable! Yet it has two large speakers together with two powerful amplifiers which provide peak power of eighteen watts. It has provisions for operating external speakers, and provision for use with component home music systems. The Revere has amazingly good frequency response. The manufacturer claims from forty to fifteen thousand cps and our tests indicate that they are achieving these results.

If you are looking for the newest in a tape player and tape recorder, visit our sound room and listen to this remarkable breakthrough in the field of Sound on Tape. Remember, the music on your tape cartridges will not wear out.

there is nothing like this wall anywhere. It is faced by a huge aluminum - and - copper sun, with embellishments of redwood - tree abstractions, wine grapes and fog wisps.

THE SCREEN serves as dramatic backdrop for the center's receptionists, who are uniformed in gold, with replicas of cable car motormen's buttons and a distinctive embroidered patch proclaiming "Visitors Information Center."

The girls preside over a redwood counter faced with green and white vinyl.

On one side wall appear names of all the Redwood Empire counties, plus various San Francisco attractions ("Chinatown," "Fleishhacker Zoo") in large pastel letters. On the opposite wall is a 28-foot folder rack, capable of holding more than 400 different pieces of literature about the region.

Maps and a revolving drum carrying news of various special events occupy space near the street windows.

IN THE MILL is a Paris-type kiosk for the sidewalk, announcing "Welcome Visitors" in a dozen languages.

Already visitors have learned of the center in their hometowns. The guest-book carries signatures from Lucknow, India; Schenectady, N.Y.; New Orleans, Chicago and many other points.

Receptionists Noreen Tate and Daryl Broderick have answered inquiries in French, German and Spanish. Experienced in the travel field, both girls spent three weeks on a whirlwind indoctrination tour (including a look at Marin County) before the June 3 opening.

"They know the ropes," says Leahy, manager in San Rafael for Title Insurance & Trust Co.

HOURS AT the center are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on weekdays; studies are being made aimed at keeping it open Saturdays to catch weekend travelers.

Proof of the pudding will be the use made of the center in the next two years: REA and the bureau have set that time limit as an initial "trial" period. However, if initial acceptance means anything, the partnership is off and running, and should mean a redwood barrel full of tourist dollars for Marin.

THE SAUSALITO WATERFRONT of more than 60 years ago including what was then the clubhouse of the San Francisco Yacht Club is seen in this photo which appeared on the cover of the yearbook issued by the club in 1902. The club had moved its headquarters from San Francisco to Sausalito in the late 1870s. And when fire destroyed the original building in 1897, the new clubhouse above was constructed. The San Francisco Yacht Club is now located in Belvedere. Other photos from the club's 1902 yearbook appear on the following pages.

FROM A 1902 YEARBOOK

How San Francisco Yacht Club Introduced Racing To The Bay

Before 1869 yachts occasionally raced against each other on San Francisco Bay, but there was no organized club and no regular regattas.

Then, in that year, the San Francisco Yacht Club was founded with H. B. Platt, owner of the steam yacht Amelia, as its first commodore.

THE CLUB, first quartered in San Francisco, then later in Sausalito, and since 1927 in Belvedere, has been a prime stimulus of competitive sailing.

A "History of the San Francisco Yacht Club," published by the club in 1902 when its clubhouse was located on the Sausalito waterfront, tells how the club arranged the first organized regatta ever held on the Bay or the Pacific Coast in August of 1869 with the Emerald, sailed by John L. Eckley, being recorded as the winner.

"In 1870," the history says, "the march of improvement compelled the yachtsmen to give up their clubhouse (at Long Bridge, Mission Bay)..."

ON JUNE 11, 1873, a reorganization meeting was held and the club incorporated with Richard L. Ogden as its commodore and Charles G. Yale as secretary.

In 1877 the club began seeking a new anchorage and rendezvous, with a committee being named to select a clubhouse site. A disagreement arose, some members favoring the waterfront of "New Sausalito," others a site to the south near "Old Sausalito." When waterfront lots were purchased and a clubhouse and wharf erected, the history records, "the malcontents went off and founded the Pacific Yacht Club."

"The San Francisco Yacht Club," the historian noted proudly, "has rendered great services to the cause of yachting in California, having arranged the details of the earliest regattas and cruises, and prepared the table of distances and the signal code . . .

"Owing to the fact there is deep water right up to the club wharf, all the large yachts on the Bay of San Francisco are enrolled in the San Francisco Yacht Club . . . Probably the most famous of all the yachts that have ever been enrolled in the San Francisco fleet is the large keel schooner Casco, modeled and owned by S. Merritt and chartered by the novelist, Robert Louis Stevenson, for a cruise among the islands of the South Pacific Ocean."

RECORDED IN history, too, were the fire of March 21, 1897, which destroyed the clubhouse, the building of new and larger accommodations, and the spirited competition which resulted among Bay Area clubs after the San Francisco Perpetual Challenge Cup was purchased by subscription in 1895.

THIS VERY NAUTICAL SEPTET made up the 1902 roster of officers of the San Francisco Yacht Club as they were pictured in the club yearbook published that year. They are, (1) R. S. Bridgman, commodore; (2) R. M. Welch, treasurer; (3) W. M. Edgell, secretary; (4) A. L. Dennison, measurer; (5) A. G. A. Mueller, financial secretary; (6) A. C. Lee, vice commodore, and (7) F. A. Robbins, port captain.

Photos From Yacht Club Yearbook Show The Proud Craft Of 1902

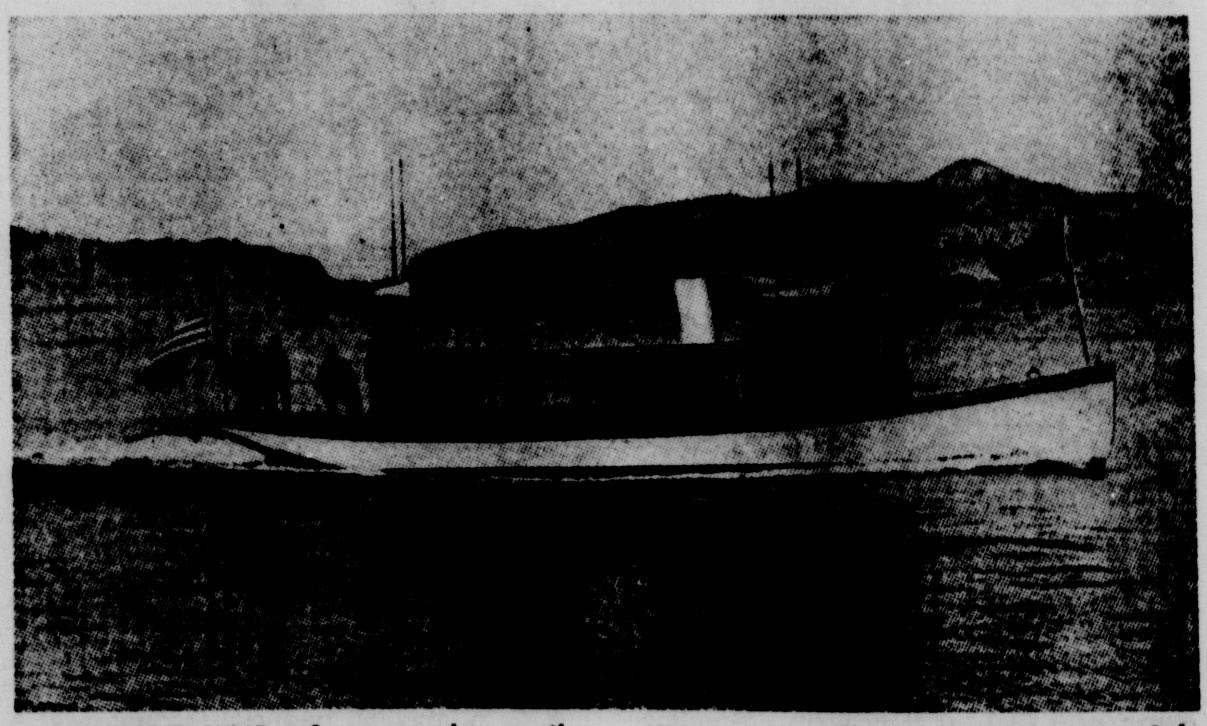
THE FINE YAWL Tramontana was the property of H. R. Simpkins, a former vice commodore of the San Francisco Yacht Club and just one of the many large yachts enrolled in the club at the turn of the century.

"CLOSE QUARTERS" read the caption on this action photograph of yachts racing on the waters of San Francisco Bay. Competition between boats within the San Francisco Yacht Club and with rival clubs was fierce in the late 1800s and the early 1900s.

THE YACHT AEOLUS was a competitor of, not a representative of the San Francisco Yacht Club. Sailing under Corinthian Yacht Club banner, she defeated the Encinal sloop Fawn in 1897 for the San Francisco Perpetual Challenge Cup. Again, in 1901, the Aeolus, owned by Carl Westerfield and R. H. Morrow, won the cup by defeating the sloop Gadder.

STILL TWO MORE OF the graceful craft which skimmed through the waters of San Francisco Bay more than half a century ago were the yacht Folly and the yacht Spray. Here early-day photographers have done an excellent job of capturing the sense of movement of the two boats.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Yacht Club year book of 1902 described the yacht Lurline, above, as "the fastest and most modern yacht on the Pacific." She belonged to J. D. and A. B. Spreckels and was California's most costly craft of her kind.



A DIFFERENT KIND of power than sails moved the Water Witch through the water. Her propulsion came from a 40 horsepower Union engine. She was the property of the von Hamm-Young Co. Ltd. of Honolulu, then the Territory of Hawaii.

PRIDE AND JOY OF the San Francisco Yacht Club was the 30-footer The Challenger owned by a syndicate of club members and built at the suggestion of Dr. T. L. Hill especially for a try at the San Francisco Perpetual Challenge Cup. B. B. Crowninshield designed and John Twigg & Sons built the handsome craft. Her launching on March 8 in San Francisco and her christening on March 16 at Sausalito by Miss Edith Bridgman were gala 1902 affairs.

AN ACCIDENT TO the Surprise, while coming out of winter quarters at Belvedere in 1901, was pictured in the San Francisco Yacht Club yearbook of the following year. Note the large crowd of spectators which the mishap had attracted.

THE AGGIE, a schooner and one of the finest boats on San Francisco Bay, first belonged to E. A. Wiltsee, and was then later acquired by J. V. Coleman.

PICTURED IN THE 1902 yearbook of the San Francisco Yacht Club along with the many fine water craft was the Hotel Geneva of Sausalito. The caption noted: "Finest marine view of the Pacific . . . Thirty minutes from San Francisco."

A Student Exchange Program Links Youth Of Two Lands

Schultz Foundation Provides Funds For The School Affiliation Service

By HARRY CRAFT

"The town has one main street made of cobblestones which are hard on American shoes," Patricia Lesko wrote from Preetz, Germany, to her mother last fall. "We don't have all the conveniences of American homes, but I have already gotten used to doing without them. And everyone treats me wonderfully here."

Patty, 16, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Lesko of Greenbrae, was last year's first Redwood High School exchange student selected to spend her junior semesters at Preetz's high school, the Staatliches Gymnasium. She will return home in August.

At the same time, her German counterpart Matthias Schmidt, who has been attending Redwood for the past year, will return to Preetz. He will arrive there with Patty's successor, 16-year-old Tim Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Frost of Belvedere.

FROM PREETZ will also come Detlev Walter, the other 1963-64 member of this give-and-take program. He will become a junior at Redwood High School.

All of them will travel part way with hundreds of other boys and girls who journey between the United States and Europe in August during the world-wide student exchange under the American Field Service.

The four are participating in School Affilation Service, a special student exchange now being conducted between Redwood and the Staatliches Gymnasium. It is a three-year program receiving financial aid from the Schultz Foundation of Greenbrae, with funds administered by its secretary, Neils Schultz Jr., and Robert J. Mautner, Marin County chairman of the American Field Service and language teacher at Redwood.

HELP IS given to both American and German students who are selected.

This succession of exchanges between Redwood and Staatliches seems destined to promote far more than the average school relationship. It has already developed a strong interest in both student bodies, as well as between the principals and their families.

Both school publications—the Redwood "Bark" and Staatliches "Anker" carry running accounts of the activities and impressions of the absentee students.

The students selected do not necessarily exchange homes, though in the case of Patty and Matthias, Patty has been living with Matthias' family in Preetz, and Matthias has been staying with the Frank Wulzens, just around the corner from Patty's home in Greenbrae.

PARADOXICALLY, Patty and Matthias have never met. It is possible they may never do so, unless through subsequent visitations in the years to come.

The same situation will hold true with Tim Frost and Detlev Walter. Tim will live with Detlev's parents who are doctors, but Detlev will become a member of the household of Col. and Mrs. Stanley Tobiason in Greenbrae.

The selection of homes for the exchange students is rightly determined on the basis of similar family backgrounds and cultural interests —but also with the thought of providing "sisters" or "brothers" near the students' own ages to help their integration in a new environment.

PATTY, WHO has three younger brothers at home,

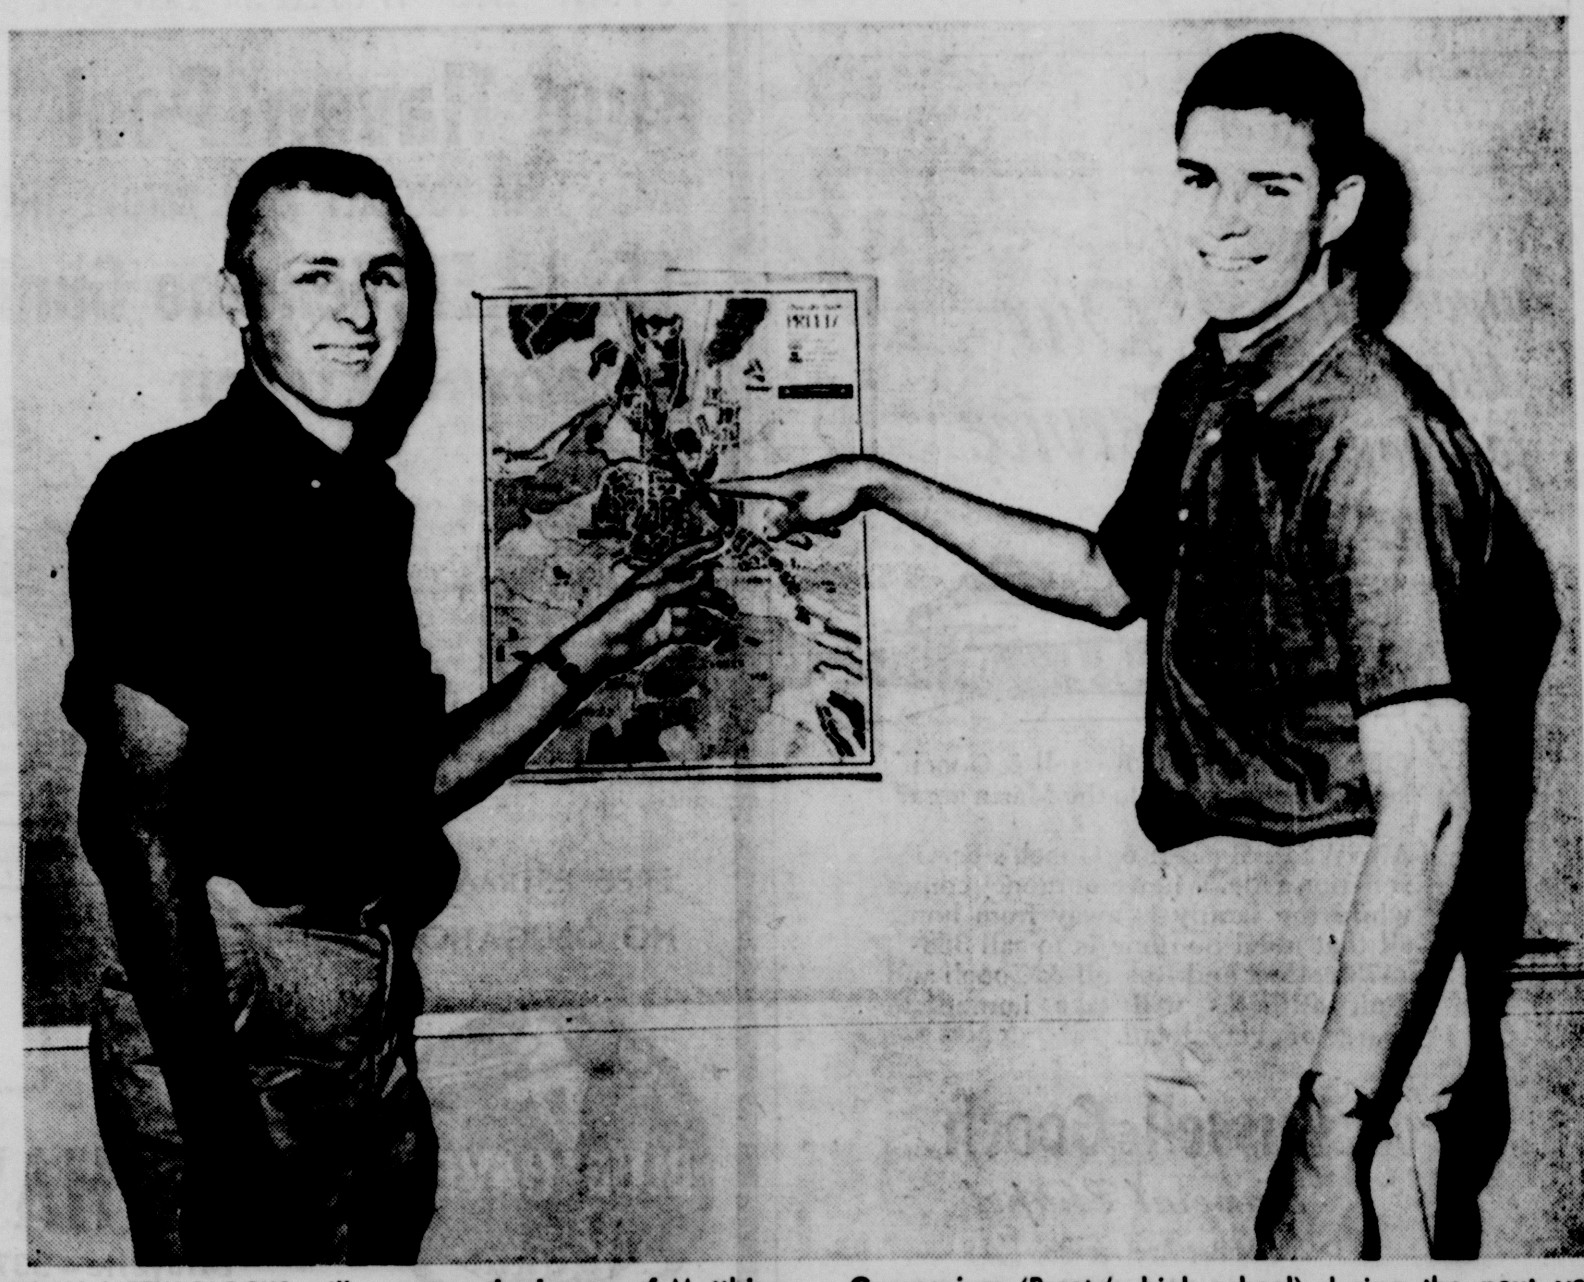
THE RESEMBLANCE between Matthias Schmidt and his "American brother," Alan Wulzen, causes many people to assume that they are actually related. While living with the Wulzens and attending Redwood High School for the past year, Matthias has lost most of his German accent. The two boys are now touring with the Wulzen family in the southern and eastern United States before young Matthias returns to Germany next month. (Independent-Journal photo)



ONLY A FEW BLOCKS will separate the homes of Matthias Schmidt, left, and Tim Frost when they arrive in Preetz next month. The two students became friends at Redwood High School and will continue their association at Staatliches Gymnasium (Preetz's high school) during the next year. Tim is Redwood's 1963-64 delegate to the north German community in the School Affiliation Service arrangement for exchanging students. (Photo by Jack Owen) gained two older "sisters" and a younger brother in Preetz. Matthias has two older American brothers in Greenbrae. One of these, Alan, 18, was graduated from Redwood in June. He and Matthias have been fast friends.

Tim Frost will have an older German brother in Preetz, and a younger sister.

When Detlev Walter arrives in Marin he will be taken in tow at the Tobiasons by two of their sons. Joel, 16, is a senior at Redwood; Stanley, 14, is a freshman.

NIELS SHULTZ JR. visiting Germany this summer, wrote that the Walters were looking forward eagerly to Tim's arrival.

The Tobiasons have expressed the same feeling and are planning on taking Detlev to their Tahoe cabin for skiing this winter.

If the selection of homes is done carefully, so, too, is the selection of the students themselves. At Redwood it involves a close analysis of the applicants by a special committee composed of Mautner, members of the school faculty and student body — particularly those who have already traveled in Europe.

"ASIDE FROM their scholastic records, applicants are judged by adaptability, personality, curiosity, family background and an ability to express themselves," Mautner explains. "The latter is important, for they are called upon many times to answer questions about their country and major issues. They become junior ambassadors."

Students are chosen at the beginning of their sophomore year, giving them two semesters to prepare for their new homes. At least one year's study of German is required.

"They will generally wind up with the same fluency whether they've had one or two years study," Mautner reports from his years of exchange experience, "but having a good understanding at the outset helps them to become adjusted more quickly. It is amusing to notice how many of them have difficulty with their own language when they return home."

THIS IS already evident in the case of Patty.

Mrs. Lesko relates that her daughter's letters home, written in English, have sometimes been difficult to understand.

Matthias claims to have the same trouble. Now speaking English continually, he has lost almost all traces of an accent—along with his ease in speaking German. He had studied English five years in Preetz (English is a required study there above the fifth grade). But according to his older American brother Alan, Matthias arrived in this country with more of a British accent than German—and that, too, has subsided.

SELECTION OF students in Preetz up to now has been largely the responsibility of the high school principal and Mautner's counterpart in that city, Werner Wiese. However, so much enthusiam has developed over the exchange program that arrangements are now being made to organize a parents' group to undertake more of the work and some of the financing.

Preetz is a small suburban community of about 14,000 population in north Germany. It is only 10 miles inland from the coastal city of Kiel, giving it a kind of geographical similarity to the Larkspur area and its proximity to San Francisco.

But the summer season is short in Preetz and the climate is not as warm as in Marin.

"WE DO NOT have a television in every home," says Matthias, "and many of us do not have the other American conveniences like refrigerators, freezers and electric dishwashers."

But Patty reported her liking for the more simple life to her mother.

"At night the family sits around a big table," Mrs. Lesko said, "while Herr Schmidt, an official with the Lutheran Church, reads aloud from the classics. Sometimes the others take turns reading, or there is a general discussion. Patty takes a hand in this, because everyone there seems interested in American history and it is one of her best subjects."

PATTY'S REPORT card at Staatliches showed good grades. She received the equivalent of A in mathematics and home economics—and of course in English, and Bs in physics, chemistry, music, art and physical education.

"Apparently there are many parties to keep her occupied in her spare time," her mother said. "And she says she and her classmates are always going on picnics, hikes and bus tours."

Matthias, a handsome, well-built blond youth who bears such a close resemblance to his American brother Alan that the two are often taken to be brothers-in-fact, also makes good grades. His language choice here is Latin. He has political science ambitions and was on the Redwood track team last year.

HE SAYS there are few competitive sport events between schools in Germany, but they do have sport clubs.

There is some conflict between the school terms in Marin and Preetz. In Germany the spring semester ends at Easter and the new term begins shortly afterward. The longest vacation of the year, six weeks, runs through July and part of August, but there are other shorter vacations in other seasons of the year.

"But the benefits gained far outweigh the disadvantages," Mautner asserts. "These students of today will be informed world citizens tomorrow."

"THIS IS MARIN COUNTY where you will live and go to school for the next year," Patty Lesko, exchange student from Redwood High School to Preetz, Germany, tells Detlev Walter who will make the trip to Marin in August. Detlev is Preetz's entry for 1963-64 at Redwood in the School Affiliation Service exchange program sponsored by the Schultz Foundation of Greenbrae. (Staatliches Gymnasium photo)

RETURNING FROM a picnic, Patty Lesko fell asleep on the bus and was photographed by one of her schoolmates. Preetz is near many beautiful lakes, and German students frequently take off on hiking, bicycling and bus tours. Swimming is one of the major sport attractions.

IT MATTERS not what the size, the shape or even the slope of your property might be, Marin's ingenious swimming pool designers and builders can plan and construct a pool that fits your special needs. They can also "tailor" it to fit your particular taste and fancy. And perhaps most important of all to many, to fit your pocketbook. On these pages are shown a few of Marin's many swimming pools, demonstrating the wide variations in sizes, shapes and settings. The three pools on the extreme right were built by Orinda Pools Inc., the other pools pictured were constructed by Pools by Mardy. These are just two of the several firms currently busy constructing new swimming pools for Marinites as more and more of the county's residents add these recreational facilities. Social Struggles In The South With Many Losers, No Winners

By DON KEOWN

We confess that we began Jack Hoffenberg's novel, "A Hero For Regis," with little enthusiasm.

The jacket blurb had informed us that here was yet another expose of corruption and sadism in a small southern town—a theme which, we felt, had been done to death by our novelists.

Furthermore, if our reading tastes had run to Southern bigotry, corrupt and demagogic politicians and police brutality, we had only to open our daily newspapers for a full dose of this kind of fare.

Hoffenberg added to our misgivings early with an extreme exhibition of that current literary fad, the jumbled chronology. Dates with each chapter head served only to lessen, not eliminate, the confusion.

Nevertheless, once Hoffenberg hit the straight-away and left the flashbacks behind, he wrote what turned out to be an interesting if not outstanding novel. The second half of the book was far superior to what had come before.

This is the story of Luther Dorman, a country boy and drunkard's son, who goes away to war and wins (not earns) the Medal of Honor. He returns to his hometown a hero and there strives to adjust and capitalize upon his new status. And while Hoffenberg tells the story of Luther's losing struggle with himself, he also unmasks much else that is ugly in the seemingly peaceful town of Regis.

It is a story of small town life gone sour—of hate, lust, greed. Racial strife is there. But that is only one of the struggles. And Luther is but one of the losers. In fact, there seem to be no winners.

A HERO FOR REGIS by Jack Hoffenberg, E. P. Dutton & Co., 600 pages, $5.95.

A DIGEST OF 500 PLAYS edited by Theodore J. Shank, Crowell-Collier Press, 384 pages, $5.95.

MARIN'S MANY theater buffs should be interested in the new Crowell-Collier book, "A Digest of 500 Plays."

Editor Theodore J. Shank, chairman of the Department of Dramatic Art and Speech, University of California at Davis, had the assistance of an advisory board of seven other university theater directors in selecting the 500 plays regarded as "most significant."

They range from the classic to the avant-garde. The limitation of space makes unavoidable some notable omissions. Yet, Shank and his colleagues would appear to have exercised excellent judgement in a most difficult assignment.

Some 40 drama directors-educators have then collaborated in providing commentaries upon the selected plays. Included are interpretive descriptions of the plots and comprehensive production notes.

The volume is planned primarily to serve as a reference volume for directors and teachers. But it should also have real practical value to the layman interested in the stage.

A Funny Man

THE LOVE EVERYBODY (EXCEPT ANTARCTICANS) CRUSADE by Arthur Hoppe, Doubleday and Co., 177 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Michael Percy.

Art Hoppe has written a serious funny book or a funny serious book. I don't know which.

I do know, however, that Hoppe doesn't believe, writing as a columnist or in this book, that communism, the cold war, nuclear bombs, the John Birch Society or Jesse Unruh are really very funny—they just come out of his typewriter that way.

When you mention Hoppe in the Bay Area, you almost always get a reaction—often violent. He steps on a lot of toes, including little old ladies in tennis shoes, "helpless" penguins and the first family.

If you're one of the few not familiar with his work, you should be, for Hoppe is probably one of the best young American humorists writing today and I predict we'll all be hearing a lot more of and from him in the years to come.

And if he hasn't yet stepped on one of your sore toes, just wait, he will.

The book contains such delightful pieces as "You Want Your Sister to Marry a Rock?," "Every Family Need Just Plain Jack," "Be Peaceful or We'll Shoot," and "With Patriots Like Us, Who Needs Traitors?"

Hoppe, a former Sausalito resident, has dedicated his book to William German of Mill Valley, news editor of the San Francisco Chronicle.

Battle Drama

PICKETT'S CHARGE by George R. Stewart, Fawcett Publications, 356 pages, paperback, 75 cents. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

A century has passed since Robert E. Lee and George G. Meade committed their armies in the valley of Gettysburg, Pa. But time has enhanced rather than dulled the drama of the three-day battle, and particularly of its climax: Pickett's charge.

Time brought George R. Stewart to the ranks of Civil War historians as a late-comer with a specialty. He has followed the climactic Confederate attack in minute detail. And because George Stewart is a writer of great skill, he has succeeded in making the minute description interesting.

Battle history is not really Stewart's forte. His account of Pickett's charge scarcely ranks with his classic history of the Donner party in "Ordeal by Hunger." But it is a good account, a worthy addition to the voluminous histories of Civil War action. And Fawcett has done a service by bringing it out as a paperback on the centennial of the battle.

Maligned Era

THE GILDED AGE: A REAPPRAISAL edited by H. Wayne Morgan, Syracuse University Press, 243 pages, $5.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

The period from the Civil War to the beginning of the 20th Century, says editor H. Wayne Morgan, has been maligned by United States historians. It was, he maintains, neither so corrupt nor so culturally bereft as almost all writers from Mark Twain to date have depicted it.

"The Gilded Age: A Reappraisal" is an attempt to change this image of the past, with 10 history professors from 10 colleges and universities (including University of California and San Jose State College) each contributing a chapter.

The result is what one might expect: The atmosphere created is more that of the lecture hall than of the lusty (whether cultured or not) period of history which the writers attempt to recreate.

There is a great deal of "on the other hand" and "this may be so, but." There is too much repetition of argument and too little of life.

The professors set out with noble purpose, and succeed in convincing the reader that the Gilded Age deserves a better press than it has been receiving. But the figure of Col. Beriah Sellers, created by Mark Twain to exemplify the period, emerges quite unscathed, and could grandly dismiss such critics with a wave of his cigar.

UNDIPLOMATIC EXIT by John Sherwood, Dolphin Mystery, 186 pages, paperback, 95 cents.

Doubleday has reprinted John Sherwood's "Undiplomatic Exit" in its Dolphin paperback series. It is a book well worthy of such treatment.

Sherwood is a skilled writer of mysteries set against backgrounds of international intrigue and adventure. This time he has chosen an unnamed Arabic country at the time of the Suez crisis as his setting. There, in the midst of a revolt, an unpopular British diplomat is murdered, adding fuel to the brightly-burning "hate the British" movement. Embassy Counselor Richard Haddon struggles desperately to avoid diplomatic disaster and to solve the killing.

Sherwood sets a sizzling pace and the reader's interest doesn't have time to lag.

CLOSE HER PALE BLUE EYES by Helen Hull, Dodd, Mead and Co., 212 pages, $3.50.

Helen Hull's "Close Her Pale Blue Eyes" has a strange, haunting quality about it.

It is the story of a woman on her deathbed. There is every indication that someone is hastening her demise. And plenty of reason to believe that that "someone" is her handsome, incredibly vain and amoral husband.

What makes the story different is that it is told from the warped viewpoint of the husband. You are given an insight into his thinking—how he justifies what he is doing. Nor are you certain until the very end exactly what he has been doing. Even then, some doubts may linger.

An excellent change-of-pace for the suspense fan.

The Great Horowitz Is Heard Again After A Long Vacation

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

VLADIMIR HOROWITZ plays Chopin: Sonata No. 2 in B flat; Rachmaninoff: Etude-Tableux in C and E flat; Schumann: Arabesque; Liszt: Hungarion Rhapsody No. 19—Columbia Stereo KS 6371.

THE SOUND OF HOROWITZ—Scarlatti: Sonatas 430, 483, 209; Schumann: Scenes from Childhood and Toccata Opus 7; Schubert: Impromptu in G flat; Scriabin: Poem and Etudes in C sharp and D sharp —Columbia Stereo MS 6411.

After a vacation of several years from the concert stage and from the recording studio, the great Horowitz at last signed with Columbia Records and turned out his first two albums—both of them exceptional in every respect.

These recordings give the listener a chance to become better acquainted with the deeper aspects of the genius of Horowitz—for the pianist is more than flying fingers. He is a sensitive musician concerned with more than just mechanics of piano-playing.

The first of these albums is a double-fold affair with seven large pages of reflections on Horowitz by Thomas Frost, plus many photographs of the pianist taken during his lengthy career which is presently at its peak.

The Chopin "Sonata No. 2" takes up the entire first side of the disc. It is one of that composer's most important works.

The brand new transcription by Horowitz of the Liszt "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 19" is the main interest on Side Two. This work, last of the Hungarian Rhapsodies to be composed, reminds one of the impressionistic period still in the future when Liszt penned the opus in 1885.

Horowitz has more control over what he records for the Columbia people than his previous label, Victor, ever allowed him. He plans to make each LP a self-contained recital instead of devoting the whole record to music of one single composer or of one single era.

He has chosen for his second LP a program he considers intimate, lyrical and tender. This need not mean quiet or dull, however. Anyone who is familiar with the delightful Scarlatti sonatas knows they do not fit that description.

While these works cry out for the harpsichord, Horowitz makes them sound sensible on the piano. My favorites in this recital are the two Scriabin Etudes, amazing pieces which extend the emotional and almost psychological mood-painting of the keyboard to its limits.

Not as ghost with sudden rappings
Or chill blast of poltergeist,
Nor clad in graveyard trappings
By spirit-medium enticed,
But in heliotrope at dusk
And tune of vireo in spring,
Woodsy sharp of civet musk
Caught in spicepink's heady cling,
Almond-tang of apricots
Picked noon-warm in July weather,
In clustered star forgetmenots,

THE SWIMMING POOL at Hamilton Park apartments is set in a courtyard surrounded by stately oak trees and is heated. Ample space for sunbathing has been provided. And barbecue and playground areas are to be added soon to contribute still further to the holiday feeling of the development which is located just across Highway 101 from Hamilton Air Force Base. Thirty-nine units have been completed, with models now open for public inspection.

For Vacation Living The Year Around

"Vacation-land living the year around" — that's the theme for Growth Properties' new eight-acre Hamilton Park development across Highway 101 from Hamilton Air Force Base.

Thirty-nine one and two-bedroom apartments in two three-story buildings separated by elevator service and with underground parking have been completed. Models are open seven days a week for public inspection.

The wooded valley setting bisected by a creek, the swimming pool and the spacious outdoor living area all contribute to the "vacation land" atmosphere.

Ray I. Johnson of San Rafael was the contractor, John Lee of San Rafael with Angus McSweeney of San Francisco the architect. Landscaping was by two Marin firms, designer Henry Cole and contractor Cagwin and Dorward.

LIVING ROOMS OF the Hamilton Park apartments are unusually spacious. This model has been furnished in contemporary furniture. Other features include wall-to-wall carpeting, quality drapes and complete soundproofing. Each apartment has a private deck or patio. Heating is by individual forced warm air furnaces. THE HANDYMAN'S PAGE

It's Easy To Add Space To Rambler

Of the basic house styles in vogue since the end of World War II, the most common is the one-story rambler.

A basically sound design, the typical rambler usually has only one major shortcoming: It probably was designed to appeal to a young married couple with only one or two small children. The one-story rambler that seemed like a mansion to a young couple 10 years ago, today is likely to be overcrowded, providing only cramped uncomfortable shelter for a growing family.

However, the same rambler that looked like such a good investment 10 years ago probably still is.

THE REASON is that the one-story rambler is one of the easiest and least expensive kinds of houses to remodel.

Experts say the ideal add-a-room project is one which provides desirable living space, and which at the same time increases the value of the property as much — or more than—the cost of the remodeling project.

Chances are, the family living in a soundly constructed rambler can do just that with careful planning and the help of a qualified remodeling contractor.

And, the chances are even greater that the same family can get that added space by remodeling for less money than they would spend in moving to a bigger house.

HERE ARE some factors of remodeling when the basic rambler style is involved:

1. The design of a typical rambler provides flexibility in floor plan. If trussed rafters were used to build the roof, there probably are no interior bearing walls.

2. The simplicity of the rectangular shape permits a variety of exterior alterations. For instance, the rectangle can easily become an L-shape with the addition of a room to the back or front of the house. Or, the rectangle can be retained by adding space to one end of the home.

3. The structural shell of a good, one-story rambler involves relatively simple carpentry, and alterations can be accomplished with equally straight-forward and inexpensive building methods.

SEVERAL WAYS to add space to almost any rambler style home are outlined in a new publication offered by Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., a non-profit trade association. Included are ideas for a 16-by-20 master bedroom with full bath and double wardrobe unit, a 12-by-16 foot single bedroom with standard wardrobe and a half-bath, a 16-by-20 foot family room with ideas for built-in storage units.

In addition, the publication suggests methods of adding similar rooms to split-level and two-story houses and discusses remodeling financing, contracting and building materials.

Developed with advice from builders, building supply outlets, and working remodeling contractors, the Remodeling Guide is intended to help home owners add space as economically as possible and to provide sound design tips.

HERE ARE a few suggestions the association offers to anyone considering a remodeling program or faced with the need for added living space:

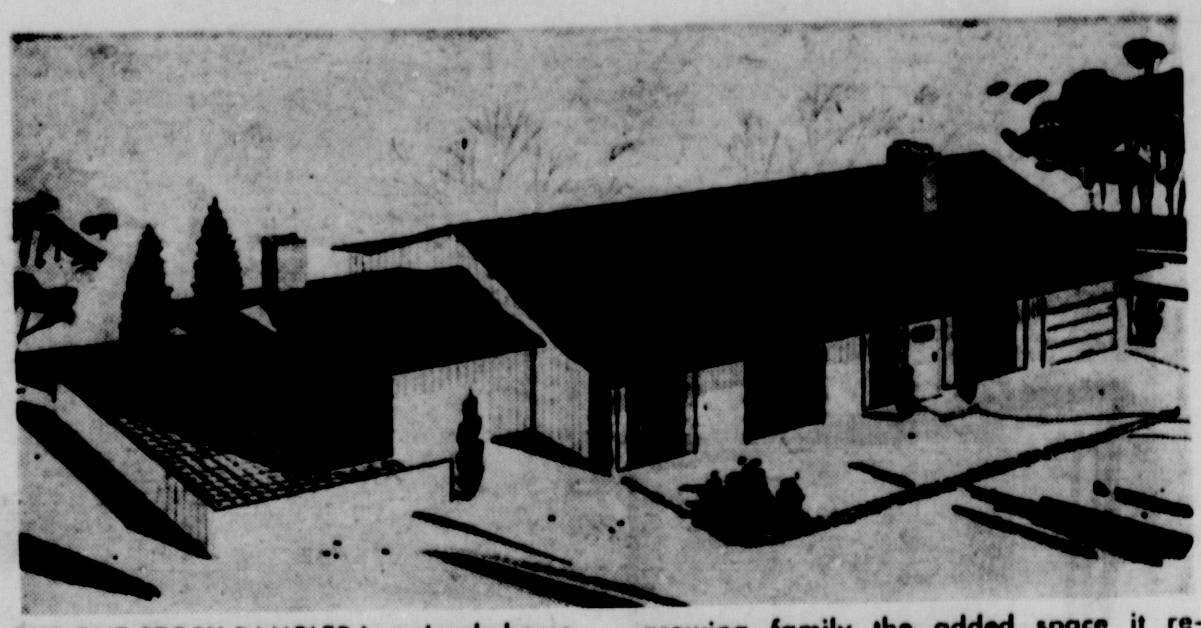
Take care to choose a reputable firm to do the remodeling job. Make sure the firm you select is an established business that has been around long enough to know its job well—and that will be around long enough to make sure you are completely satisfied with your project.

Work with a contract and a plan. A contract will make sure that both you and your contractor know what work is to be done; a plan will outline that work specifically. Make as few changes as possible once the plan and contract are agreed upon.

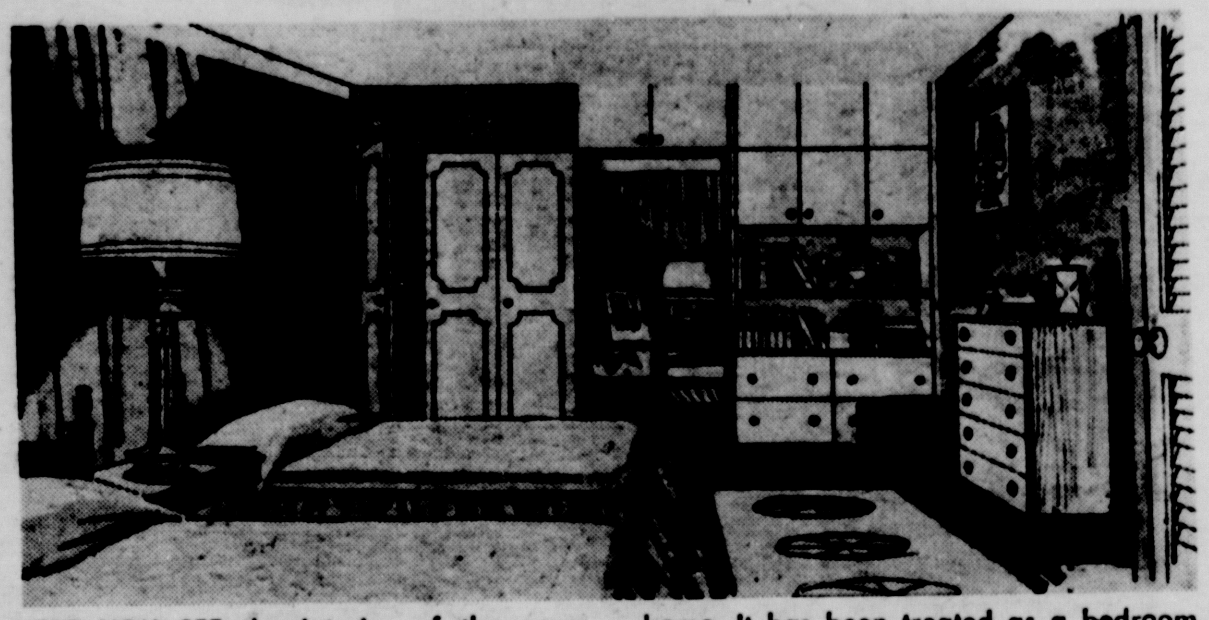
Try to stick to a basic goal in your remodeling program. If it is space that is needed, keep interior alterations and decoration to a minimum. Interior alterations usually are expensive, but add little value to a house.

A SIMPLE rule of thumb is this: The less interior alteration required, and the fewer frills drawn into the plans, the more square feet your remodeling budget will buy.

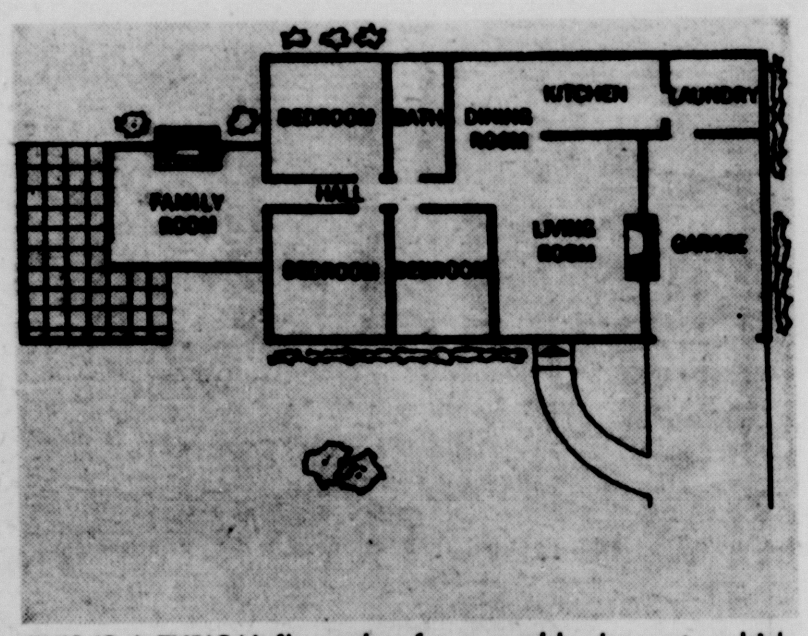
For detailed information about eight basic ways to add space to virtually any home, send 25 cents to Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., 1119 A Street, Tacoma 2, Wash., and ask for DFPA Remodeling Guide.



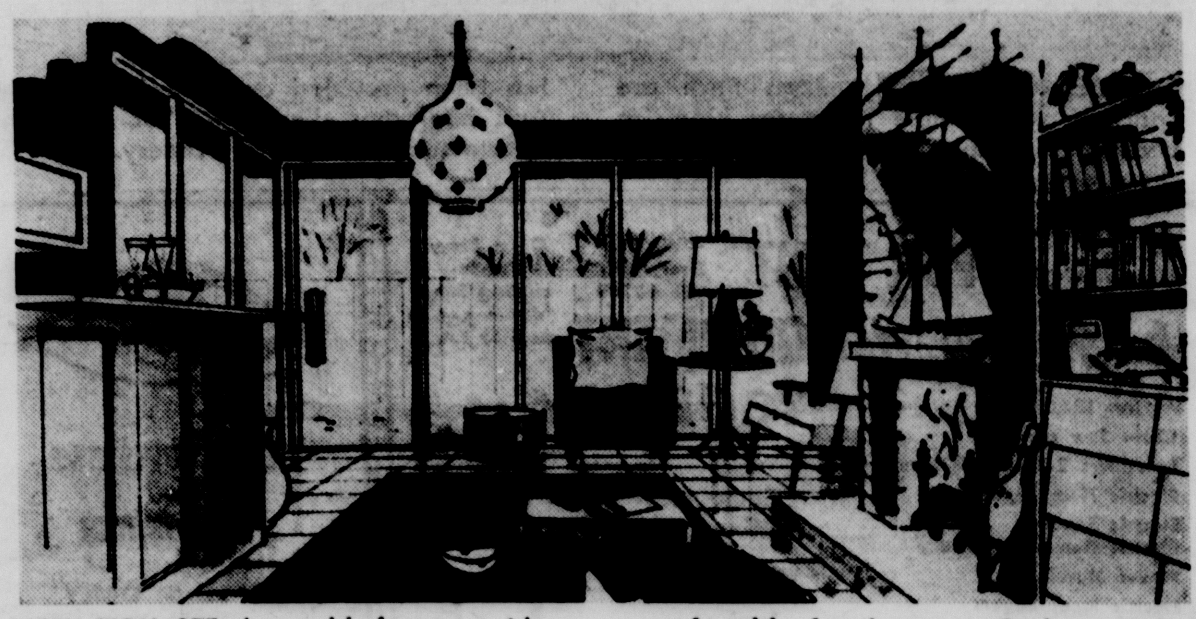
THE ONE-STORY RAMBLER is a simple home to remodel by adding a new room. In this case, the 20-by-16-foot addition was connected to one end of the house to give a growing family the added space it required. Douglas Fir Plywood Assn. is distributing a guide for the remodeling of the rambler and other currently-popular home styles.



HERE YOU SEE the interior of the new room which has been added to the rambler home. It has been treated as a bedroom. However, the same room could have been decorated to function as a family room.



THIS IS A TYPICAL floor plan for a rambler home to which a room has been added—in this case, a family room. The basic rambler style lends itself to such a remodeling because of the simplicity of its rectangular shape and the flexibility of its floor plan.



NOW YOU SEE that added room with a slightly different end wall and a change in furnishings so that it has become a comfortable family room. Such a project not only adds living space to the home, but also increases the value of the property.

"REALTY VIEWS"

"Do you suppose you could find anyone foolish enough to buy our $40,000 home?" a professional man, Bob Blanden, jokingly asked one day.

"You're not leaving town are you?" I replied.

"Town, yes," he said emphatically; "The area, no!" Then he added, "You see my growing family wants to get out in the country a few miles. I thought we might find a big old house on a few acres for about half of my present residential investment. Then, I'd put the extra money into paying for an income property for the kids' education. What do you think of the idea?"

William A. Lewis

"If your family is for it, it's fine with me," I replied.

"Let's talk with my wife. If she agrees, and I think she will, you can start us on our way. What would you want, an exclusive listing?"

"Naturally," I said with a smile, "a professional man deserves our best professional treatment. An exclusive listing is the key to the door of sales results."

Mrs. Blanden okayed the plan, and we commenced work—professionally.

Within a couple of months, a man came in and asked for our best home. He said he'd just rejoined his family after several years in Africa and "they deserve the best." The Blanden home changed hands!

When you wish to sell your home, call on us. We'd be pleased to serve you, too.

THE GARDENING PAGE

The Espaliered Tree Or Shrub Is Climbing Fast In Popularity

It was not many years ago that the art of espalier was practiced by relatively few experienced gardeners.

The average home gardener did not know enough about selective pruning and training to make his plants grow flat against a wall.

Today, however, with garden space growing even smaller, the espaliered shrub or tree has become more and more popular. And as might be expected, something has been done to meet the demand which has doubled many times in the last decade alone.

If you visit a local nursery, you'll find that any number of plants can now be purchased as well-started espaliers.

NATURALLY, these established espaliers are more expensive than untrained shrubs or trees of the same type, but the increase in cost is relatively minor when you consider the amount of work that has gone into making a plant grow flat on a trellis. Start one from scratch sometime and you'll agree that it takes plenty of time and know-how to succeed. More of each than most of us have.

A sampling of espaliers you'll find in nurseries now includes not only citrus and other fruit trees, but such ornamentals as hibiscus, camellia, pyracantha, magnolia and evergreen pear, and trees such as the olive and vines such as bougainvillea or Star Jasmine.

If you guessed that two dozen different types of plant could be found as espaliers, you'd probably be on the conservative side. It's a happy situation.

Let's consider how useful these beautifully trained shrubs and trees can be:

SAY YOU have a long narrow walk on the shaded side of your house—leading to the front door or merely to the back yard. What could be nicer than to have a row of espaliered camellias against the wall, or would you prefer azaleas. Both are available. They give you bloom and substance without getting in your way as you walk by.

Now, what if that same narrow path is on the sunny side of your house? What can we plant there?

Well, for a starter, there's the Mystery Gardenia or several of our more choice hibiscus varieties. And you'll also find espaliered Bottle Brushes or possibly your favorite citrus variety which will happily soak up the sun. If you want a showy vine for the same area, try bougainvillea. It's hard to find anything showier than that.

THE ESPALIER method also makes it possible to grow fruit in cramped quarters where even a dwarf fruit tree would be too bulky to use. Fruits most commonly grown by this method are pear and apple, since they bear their crops on the same short spurs each year for many years. This enables one to create an original form with these fruits and maintain it, where trees that bear crops on new wood require some special pruning —and more of it.

Aside from the generally useful reasons for growing espaliers above, there is the simple fact that they are downright decorative and worth growing simply for this reason alone.

And your choice of material ranges far and wide for this purpose. For a large blank wall, the Evergreen Pear is hard to beat. A wide ranging plant, it will cover your wall in time with glossy green foliage and lovely white flowers in early spring.

THE LOQUAT is also good for a wall of this type. Its large, leathery leaves are decorative enough in their own right, but the yellow (and edible) fruit which comes in early spring or summer adds to the beauty. Or try Burford Holly in the same spot.

Better yet, try two of them, for they are less vigorous than either Evergreen Pear or Loquat — but what beauty when they are in berry.

For a large, blank wall in the shade, the Fatshedera is hard to beat. Half vine, half shrub, it will cover plenty of ground with its large, glossy green leaves.

There are many others, but space keeps us from mentioning them. You'll come across them in nurseries, though, whenever you set out to look.

Greenery On The Rocks

Rocky terrain and sloping lots might not be the ideal conditions for gardening, but anyone with an eye for the artistic will be happy to have them. They provide two ingredients of that favorite old pastime—rock gardening.

The accomplished rock gardener can turn unfriendly terrain into a garden sculpture which makes flat gardens seem uninteresting by comparison. He can grow more plants in a limited space and grow them more appealingly than can the gardener who gardens on the level.

Why else have some people gone to such extremes in creating rocky mounds of earth in gardens that are naturally flat as pancakes?

Succulents such as Stonecrop make excellent rock garden subjects. Perennials such as Italian Bellflower, yellow Basket of Gold alyssum, white - flowered evergreen Candytuft and pink-flowering Creeping Phlox give the gardener a start on something special. Cushion Chrysanthemums and Dwarf Lavender are also extra special in rock garden settings.

A WINDOW BOX can provide a most effective showcase for your gayer colored flowers. Here petunias in several color combinations have been used. Other favorites include geraniums, nasturtiums, fuchsias (in shade or semi-shade), lobelias fronted by black-eyed-susan vines, ageratum, dwarf marigold, annual phlox and verbena. If your pick is the petunia, look into some of the newer hybrids with their dazzling display of colors.

CUT ROSES from your garden, attractively arranged can add a charming decorator touch to any room in your home. Nor need the arrangements be elaborate to be attractive. This simple one was fashioned from a dozen blooms of the prize-winning Royal Highness, a clear-pink rose that was one of the 1963 All-America selections.

Some Tips To Make A Prettier Bouquet

This is cut flower time.

If you are concerned about color harmony in bouquets of mixed flowers, add a few white ones to make the colors blend. White softens bright colors.

The largest and darkest flowers should be placed at the lowest point of your design.

If you use a tall container, the longest flower stems should be one and one-half times the height of the vase. For a low container, the longest stems should rise twice the diameter of the container. The other flowers should have shorter stems of varying lengths.

The largest and darkest flowers should have the shortest stems for they appear heaviest in arrangements.

CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Petunias, marigolds, lobelia, asters and zinnias may be set out now for late summer color.
- Plants do not like being sprayed during the heat of the day. Choose a windless time in early morning or late afternoon to spray this month.
- Fine mist sprinklers are best for camellias, begonias, azaleas, fuchsias and other shade-loving plants. You find them in nurseries.
- When you've watered a garden bed, dig down several inches to make sure the water penetrated as deeply as you thought it did.
- Mulch shrubs with peat moss, bark or manure. This is especially helpful in conserving moisture during vacation periods.

SYNANON HOUSE of Westport, Conn., controversial narcotics rehabilitation center, is the subject of "Synanon—So Fair a House," produced by WNHC-TV of New Haven, Conn., and scheduled for showing Tuesday at 10:30 p. m. on KGO-TV on the "Focus on America" series. Above, James Middleton, assistant director of Synanon House, operated by a non-professional organization formed by the drug addicts themselves to combat addiction, discusses the schedule of activities with three Synanon residents.

THE CAREER OF the best-known of the modern-day evangelists, Rev. Billy Graham, was traced from his start as a boy on a farm near Charlotte, N. C., to its crescendo at the highly successful Billy Graham Crusade in Philadelphia by the NBC-TV "Purex Special" entitled "The World of Billy Graham." It will be repeated Thursday at 10 p.m. on KRON-TV.
